

HOLY WEEK IS USHERED IN BY PALM SUNDAY

SOCIETY HALTS
AS PENITENTIAL
DAYS NEAR END

No Affairs of Prominence are Calendered for the Forthcoming Week—Past Half-Fortnight One of Unusual Activity, Considering Lenten Season

(By ROSEMARY CHRISTEN)

TODAY is Palm Sunday. Accordingly, the coming six days will be devoted to the spiritual meditation of Holy Week. Thoughts will dwell on the beautiful significance of this sacred period, in preparation for the great Easter Day, when all things temporal and transient will give way to things spiritual.

The week will be one of impressive solemnity and even in clubdom, quietude will reign.

The past week was one of unusual activity for the Lenten season. Each day the social calendar was crowded with interesting events.

The marriage of Miss Harriet Thompson to Frederick Brinker, of Pittsburg, Saturday, was preceded by a number of delightful social events during the week. Quite a few social affairs were also given for the pleasure of Miss Marjorie McClintock, of New York. Miss McClintock is a student at Western College for Women and has been visiting with Mrs. I. S. Motter during the spring vacation.

An interesting event of the week was that of Tuesday when the League of Women Voters and the Legislative Committee of the City Federation of Women's clubs presented Miss Emily Knebul at a gathering at the Elks' Home. The speaker had for her subject, "The Woman of Today in Industry, in Politics and in the Home."

Plans were completed during the past week for one of the most delightful social functions of the month of May—the annual May Day breakfast by the Mercy Circle of King's Daughters. The breakfast will be given this year at Trinity M. E. church. Tuesday, May 2nd, has been chosen as the date.

Young Ladies' Aid society of Market Street Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Walter Montgomery of Garfield-av, Wednesday. The assistant hostesses will be Mrs. H. M. Shifferly, Mrs. P. R. Marshall, Mrs. Walter Noble, Mrs. J. S. Williams, Mrs. Clarence Wismuller and Mrs. Frank Moke. Mrs. Clarence Miller will be in charge of devotionals.

The final meeting of the year of the Philomathean club will be held with Miss Gail Parmenter, of W. Spring-st, Monday evening. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

The Delphian club will meet with Mrs. Ralph Austin, of N. Collett-st, Wednesday.

Mrs. Rolla Wildoner, of Brice-av, was hostess to the members of the Rainbow club, Thursday afternoon. Euchre was the diversion, Mrs. Loren Dickensheets and Mrs. Ralph Jolley holding high scores. At 4 o'clock the hosts served a delicious lunch. Guests other than members were Mrs. Ralph Jolley, Mrs. V. G. Dickensheets and Mrs. Daniel Gilbert.

The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Ora Campbell, of Leland-av. The assistant hostesses will be Mrs. Roland Pape and Mrs. Ernest DeVoe.

The Child's Conservation League will meet with Mrs. Edward Schuster, of N. Collett-st, Wednesday instead of Thursday.

COURTING REDUCED TO SCIENCE

NEW YORK — (Special) — Courtship has been reduced to the art of sales efficiency by Joseph Donald Grafton, according to three women who say he rushed them after whirlwind wooings to the marriage license office.

The New York grand jury has been hearing bigamy charges against Grafton. The witnesses against him are Mrs. Ellen McIntyre Grafton, who says he deserted her on their honeymoon to marry Mrs. Mary Margaret Laird Grafton, whose stage and screen name is Peggy Davis.

Mrs. Morris D. Greenleaf, of State-st, will welcome the members of the Quilna Bridge at her home, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. F. B. Eaton and son Myron have gone to Columbus for the Easter vacation.

The Astronomy class of the City Federation of Women's clubs will meet with Mrs. W. B. Kirk, of Brice-av, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

The Stitches club will meet with Mrs. H. A. Tilton, of W. Spring-st, Tuesday afternoon.

"He was a super-salesman of himself as a husband," says Peggy Davis.

"He certainly had love sales efficiency reduced to a science," says Mrs. Ellen McIntyre Grafton.

The two women met, compared marriage licenses, then caused the grand jury investigation.

Meanwhile a third woman, living in Pittsburg, says Grafton had gone so far as to get a license to marry her, also after sales efficiency courtship.

Mrs. W. L. Allgire and Mrs. B. A. Long delightedly entertained the members of the Friday Bridge club at 1 o'clock luncheon at the Allgire home on Lincoln-av, last Thursday.

Mrs. Miller Laudick and Mrs. Guy Coppus will be hostess to the club next meeting.

NUPTIAL EVENT OF BRILLIANCE
IS CELEBRATED

Miss Harriet Corley Thompson Becomes the Bride of Frederick Charles Brinker, of Pittsburg—Ceremony in Market-st Presbyterian Church

SATURDAY morning at 11:30 o'clock, in the Market Street Presbyterian church, the Rev. Samuel Huecker read the marriage lines, which united Miss Harriet Corley Thompson, daughter of T. E. Thompson, of W. Spring-st, and Frederick Charles Brinker, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Brinker, of Pittsburg, in holy matrimony. The church was adorned with palms for the occasion.

The bride, who was unattended, was attractively gowned in a mid-night blue cape suit of tricotine. She wore a smart black hat and her corsage was a shower of orchids and valley lilies.

Mr. Thompson gave his daughter in marriage. Mr. Brinker was attended by the bride's brother, Max Thompson, as groomsmen.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Violet Bradley played a group of organ numbers and with the opening strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March the bridal party took their places before the altar. During the ceremony, Mrs. Harry L. Gayer sang "Oh, Promise Me." The recessional was Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served in the private dining room at the Elks' Home. The table was beautifully appointed in a color scheme of yellow and white. A huge basket of spring blossoms, combined with smilax, adorned the center of the table, while lighted yellow cathedral candles cast a pretty glow. Nut baskets, in the shape of white slippers and small white baskets, adorned with wedding bells, marked each cover, while place cards were in the form of tiny Cupids, holding strings of wedding bells.

Places were arranged for Mr. Brinker and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Brinker, of Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. B. Harley Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Curtin, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cable, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clemenger Thompson, Mrs. Frank Kling, of Kittanning, Pa., the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Huecker, Mrs. Edna Neely Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Gayer, Mrs. Paul Heinise, of Pittsburg; Miss Grace Cooley, of Kittanning; Messrs. T. M. Thompson, Calvin and Brice Sellridge and Joseph Gooding.

Following the dinner, Mr. Brinker and his bride left on a several weeks' wedding trip thru the east. After May 1st, they will be at home in the Arden-av, Waverly-st, Pittsburg.

The bride was graduated from the Training School for Nurses at the Western Pennsylvania hospital, Pittsburg, in the Class of 1921. She also graduated from the Lima Central high school. Her pleasing personality made her a social favorite among her many Lima friends, who deeply regret that her marriage will take her from this city.

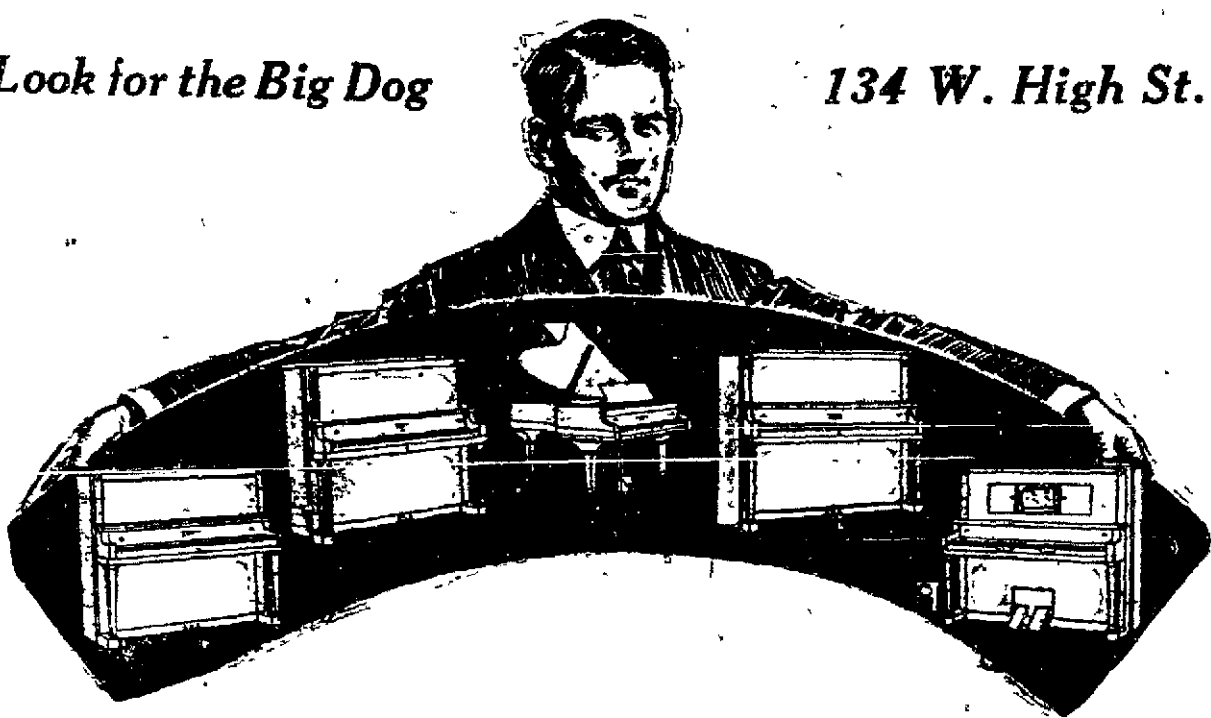

Mr. Brinker is a graduate of the Washington and Jefferson school and the University of Pittsburg Law School. He is affiliated with the Phi Kappa Sigma and the Delta Theta Phi fraternities. At the present time he is associated in business with his father in the Brinker Supply Co., Pittsburg.

The Art Study club will meet with Mrs. P. M. Hulsken, of State-st, Tuesday evening, April 13th. At this time, Mrs. Phil M. Crow will have a paper on "Mural Decoration of the Rotunda of the Congressional Library," while Mrs. Kyle Borth will have a paper on "Furniture Design."

Society News

The Woman's Home Missionary society of Trinity M. E. church will meet at the church Wednesday, 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. C. C. Harrod, Mrs. E. J. Bigley, Mrs. P. M. Ireland and Mrs. J. J. Wyre as hostesses. This will be the Lenten meeting and the sacrificial offering will be taken up.

The subject for the meeting will be "Home Missions and the World of Work." Mrs. F. L. Kah will be in charge of the program. The Lenten Chapter VI of the study book will be taken up with Mrs. E. A. Leason as the leader. Mrs. Leason will be assisted by Mrs. L. E. Justus and Mrs. F. L. Kah. Music will be in charge of Mrs. Ross McCallam. An address will be given by Mrs. E. E. McGammon, of St. Mary's and the Rev. Cecil White will give a talk on "North Broadway Chapel."

At the meeting of Class No. 4 of the First Christian church, Friday, in the church parlors, the following officers were elected: Mrs. R. B. Kline, president; Mrs. C. C. McPherson, vice president; Mrs. T. L. Bacone, secretary; Mrs. L. E. Williams, assistant secretary and Mrs. E. A. Beach, treasurer. In a contest, Mrs. T. L. Bacone was declared the winner. The hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Amer Whelpley, Mrs. E. A. Beach and their committee.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. T. L. Bacone, of 516 Atlantic-av.

Miss Cecile Brown, W. Eureka, was happily surprised Friday evening when a group of friends gathered at her home in honor of her birthday anniversary. Games and dancing were the features of the evening and a delicious luncheon was served. Those present included Misses Naomi Creps, Freda Griffin, Gladys Anderson, Nellie Albrecht, Mildred Clark, Irene Smith, Gladys Brown, Cecil Brown, Messrs. Dean Patton, Merle Myers, Dale Huff, Lester Wiggard, Grover Schadt and Russell Holm.

Frances Willard Union, W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. J. M. Knittle, of W. Wayne-st., Tuesday at 2 p. m. The assistant hostess will be Mrs. A. J. Kilgore, Mrs. C. H. Bogardus and Mrs. Ida Morgan. All members are urged to attend. A reception to be held in May.

Mr. and Mrs. James Burba and little daughter Betty, of Wilmington, are the week-end guests of Mrs. Burba's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Whitney, of S. McDonell-st.

The newly elected officers of the guild include: Hazel Frazer, president; Olive Parmenter, vice-president; Helen Dunn, secretary and Delma Chapman, treasurer.

The "Hold the Rope" Guild of the First Baptist church met with Miss Margaret Nungester, of W. Elm-st. Saturday afternoon. An interesting program was presented and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. W. A. Nungester.

Mrs. Olive Burgett and Mrs. R. D. Chamberlain will entertain the members of the Utility club at the Chamberlain home on N. Washington-st. Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gary, of N. West-st., entertained informally last week for the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Shaffer. Mrs. Shaffer was formerly Miss Loretta Hodde. Music and dancing were the diversions and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Harper, Miss Mabel Hode and Miss Ida Roby.

Thirteen members responded to roll call with "Humorous Quotations" at the meeting of the Home-acres club, Thursday with Mrs. S. S. Tiesel, of the Elida-rd. "Famous Women" was the subject for the afternoon. In a clever contest, Mrs. Edward Heiser was successful. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. George Richle in serving a two course luncheon.

Mrs. Roy Coffman and children, of S. Metcalf-st. left for Richmond, Ind., for a week's stay with relatives.

The W. B. A. Girls' club will meet with Mrs. Phil Alberts, of W. High-st. Monday evening.

Mrs. R. J. Plate, of Lakewood-ave, extended the hospitality of her home to the members of the Altru-stian club, Friday. Members responded to roll call with Bible quotation and Mrs. Samuel Huecker had a paper on the subject, "The Life of Samuel." Guests were Mrs. George Plate, Mrs. S. K. Heckerman and Mrs. Herbert Plate.

Mrs. R. O. Bigley, of W. Market-st. will be hostess at the next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hargins and son Harold, are spending the day at the R. D. Hollenbacher home in Wapakoneta.

For the pleasure of Prof. Harold Ahrendt and Miss Hilda Overholtz both of Tiffin, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Custerbender, of Faurot-ave, entertained a group of friends at a pleasant gathering at their home, Thursday. Music and dancing formed the diversions.

The guests included Prof. Ahrendt, Miss Overholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Baumgardner, Miss Olive Lake, H. Deramese, Mrs. D. S. Custerbender, Miss Helen Creps and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bluer.

Mrs. Elmer Roberts, of N. Collett-st. will open her home to a group of friends for a luncheon, Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Markel, of N. Main-st., welcomed a group of friends at her home, Friday evening, in honor of her daughter, Miss Clara, whose marriage will take place this week. The gathering was in the form of a miscellaneous shower.

The guests included Mrs. Starry, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. J. C. Martin, Mrs. Bert Blackburn, Mrs. Leo Blackburn, Mrs. Ray Twining, Mrs. Evelyn Wool, Mrs. Frank Reynolds and daughter, Constance, Mrs. Virgil Reynolds, Mrs. Riley, Mrs. Carl Marshall, Mrs. Lee Gremling, Mrs. Richards, Miss Hazel Hensey, Mrs. William Martin and the hostess.

The Community service club was entertained all day Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Matilda Coon, of N. West-st. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Julia Helcht. The morning was devoted to needlework and at 12 o'clock a covered dish dinner was served. After the business session, a contest, in which Mrs. Rose Daniels and Mrs. Doris Hobson were successful, followed. Mrs. Joel Snyder and Mrs. Shook were the only guests.

Members present included Mesdames Margaret Ward, Myrtle Whartman, Mae Weger, Lulu Stevens, Emma Cummings, Rose Daniels, Dora Robertson, Julia Helcht, Clara Bates, Sophia McElvaine, May Hall and the hostess.

Dr. and Mrs. T. R. Terwilliger, of W. Market-st., welcomed the members of the T. and T. club and several guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Reid and Mrs. Betty Brice Wilson at an attractively appointed dinner at the Lima club, Friday evening.

The program for the evening was one of unusual interest. The subject was "Evangelizing the Submerged Tenth." Mrs. Leah M. Butler gave a splendid talk on the subject, "The World's Greatest Autocrat" while Mrs. T. K. Jacobs presented a most interesting paper on the subject, "Around the World With the Salvation Army."

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roby, of W. Market-st., will entertain the club at the next meeting.

In honor of her niece, Miss Marjorie McClintock, of New York, Mrs. I. S. Motter, of W. Spring-st., welcomed a small group of guests at her home Friday at an attractive 1 o'clock luncheon. Yellow was the color motif for the luncheon and a large basket of spring blossoms formed the centerpiece.

Plans were arranged for Miss McClintock, Miss Catherine Galvin, Miss Marion Cable, Miss Janet White, Miss Kathryn Schaefer, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, Mrs. J. Robb Melly and the hostess.

The Community Sewing Class of the federated clubs will meet at the Red Cross Center Tuesday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. All who are planning to attend are asked to call Mrs. Nellie Simpson, Main 1256.

The Philathea Class of Grace M. E. church will meet Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Botkin, of Brice-av.

Mrs. W. J. Felsner, of W. North-st., informally entertained a small group of friends at her home last Thursday evening complimenting Mrs. R. A. Buchanan, who left Saturday for a several weeks' stay in Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Remy and Miss Eva Remy, of Fremont, are the guests of W. F. Troop and family, W. North-st.

The meeting of the Sunshine society, which was to have been held Tuesday, has been postponed until Tuesday, April 15th. Members will meet with Mrs. I. M. Armstrong at this time.

OHIO FEDERATION NEWS

Last week Mrs. William N. Harder, Marion, president of the Central district in which there are more than 100 federated clubs, issued a call for the district convention, which is to be held at Westerville,
Tuesday and Wednesday, April 25 and 26. In it, Mrs. Harder stresses the importance of federated club women extending invitations to un-federated club women, and send as large a number of delegates as possible she says. "This is the one opportunity of the year for vice president and club members to meet.
Let us make it a real 'get acquainted with each other and our district meeting.'"

SOLDIER MEMORIAL PROPOSED
The Westerville conference will open at 1:30 p. m., Tuesday when it is anticipated that there will be a large attendance, as the program for the first day as well as on the second day, is filled with subjects of great interest to club women in the Central district. Wednesday's session will open at 9:15 a. m. when a musical conference, at which the subject of kindergarten music is to be presented and demonstrated, will be conducted. Clubs are expected to send delegates instructed how to vote on the question, "Shall the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs erect a Soldiers' Memorial on the site of Camp Sherman?" This is to be passed on by all the district club conferences. The question was referred to the district meetings at the state convention in Cincinnati.

Club presidents finding it impossible to attend or send delegates are expected to mail a report of their club activities to Mrs. Harder at Marion by April 18. Reports of clubs will be limited to two minutes and those of federations to five, all reports being filed with the secretary as a record of the work of the district. Names of delegates and visitors should be forwarded in advance. Rooms for Tuesday night and breakfast will be furnished in private homes for one dollar a person, payable at the time of registration, which will be made at the United Brethren church, where all the sessions are to be conducted.

Tickets for the dinner, Tuesday evening will be 31.25. Reservation for rooms and for the dinner should be made with Mrs. W. A. Kline, No.
48 N. Grove-st., Westerville, before April 18.

CIVIC PROGRAM SUGGESTIONS
Mrs. Elmer G. Laurence, No. 850
Locust-st., Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, submits these suggestions for next year's civic work:

"The City Beautiful? First, 'Civic Centers'; second, 'Famous Parks and Memorials'; third, 'Possible
Local Park Areas and Boulevards';
'The City Sanitary' First, 'State Health Laws and Their Administration'; second, 'Methods of Garbage Disposal'; third, 'Pure Food Laws and Market Inspection'."

Mrs. Laurence, who is the state federation civic committee chairman, also calls attention to spring planting and urges early plans for it. A very helpful bulletin, she says, may be secured from the department of agriculture. It is known as "Farmers' Bulletin No. 1171."

The Norwood Federation is doing all in its power to interest children in good music. Thru the cooperation of J. Cadman, superintendent of the Norwood schools, Mr. Poppeldorff, of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, Mrs. Charles B. Fox, president of the Norwood Musical club, the Mothers' club and the board of education, a series of popular concerts for the young people has been conducted in the high school during the past winter. The music consisted of a string quartet, soloist and interpreter. The interpreter explained each number so that the youngest child could follow the musical part and enjoy it.

You Can't Afford It

A good many women in recent years have thought that they could afford to go without a corset.

And the result is that every day we hear the same complaint from customer after customer: "What can I do to get back my figure?"

The truth of the matter is that if a woman wears no corset, or an in-

And the loss is serious, for it means loss of self-assurance as well as of beauty.

If you will come to us with your own problems—your difficulties in

MANAGERS ANNOUNCED FEATURES

Each and Every Program For This Week in Lima Theatres Is of the Best

Diversity of Attractions Provided For the Most Discriminating Fans of Filmdom

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
WIDELY diversified entertainment is spread before the moviegoers of Lima this week. A pretentious array of silver-sheet celebrities destined to appear in their newest releases. In fact, each individual theatre's bill of fare is certain to make a profound impression upon the discriminating moviegoer.

One of the most important events in the movie world this week is the opening of the beautiful new Quilna theatre, formerly the Regent. Saturday, April 10, will mark the opening day, with Gloria Swanson appearing in "Her Husband's Trademark" as the initial offering.

The Faurot's list of cinema features is a remarkable one, opening today with Wallace Reid in "Rent Free." Lila Lee plays opposite. Then on Tuesday and Wednesday will be seen "The Last Payment," in which Pola Negri, famous international star, will have the leading role. The week-end will be given over to the showing of "The Lone That Had a Heart" from the famous novel by Sir Gilbert Parker. Agnes Ayres has the stellar role.

Charles Ray as a football hero! That's the role he portrays in his new release, "Two Minutes To Go," opening a four-day engagement today at the Sigma. It's a story of college life and boasts a real-football hero.

Zane Grey's thriller, "The Last Trail," is announced as coming to the Sigma for three days this week, starting on Thursday.

Two important screen productions are booked for showing at the Lyric this week. The first, "At the Stage Door," written by William Christy Cabanne, opens a four-day engagement today, and includes in its list of players Billie Dove, Jr., Doris Eaton, Billie Dove, a principal in "Sally," and several other noted stage beauties.

Rita Williams's story, "The Grim Comedian," in which Jack Holt is starred, will appear at the Lyric theatre for three days, starting on Thursday.

The Majestic comes forward with a list of excellent screen offerings for the week to come, opening today with Pauline Frederick in "Madame X," the classic of the most dramatic production of the decade. In it Miss Frederick does the best work of her career. By way of contrast, there's a jolly little two-reel comedy to balance the bill.

The Lyric Pictures
WILLIAM CABANNE triumphs. "At the Stage Door," is a drama based upon theatre life, with a theme that gets right into the hearts of both men and women. It is scheduled for exhibition at the Lyric theatre for four days, starting today.

The story has to do with the adventures of a girl who leaves her country home because her pretty sister wins her beau from her, and the negroes to the metropolis and joins the chorus of a musical comedy. It is a faithful picture of theatre life—with occasional glimpses behind the curtain—and rich in the atmosphere of the theatre that motion picture fans like so well.

An unusual array of talent is seen in the cast of characters. For example, Miss Billie Dove, one of the most beautiful of New York's stage folk, has the part of the small town girl who comes to New York and goes into the chorus. Miss Dove has for a number of years been associated with the Ziegfeld organization and is at present appearing on the stage in "Sally," the biggest musical hit of the year. In fact, her own career runs somewhat parallel to that of the girl whose life she portrays.

The sister is played by another talented and beautiful young woman of the theatre, Miss Elizabeth North, of the Greenwich Village Follies. Miss North is a newcomer to the screen, but has abundant talent.

Others prominent in the cast are: William Collier, Jr., son of the famous comedian; Miriam Battista, the famous child actress; Doris Eaton, Follies Beauty, whose sister, Mary Eaton is in this year's Ziegfeld aggregation; Huntley Gordon, Vivian Ogden and Charles Craigh.

Surely no picture of recent release can boast a list of principals. Mingling entertainment of the most engrossing nature with a lesson of tremendous moral value "At the Stage Door" will undoubtedly prove one of the most excellent bits of screen entertainment brought to the Lyric for many a moon.

Starting on Thursday, Rita Wetman's story "The Grim Comedian" opens a three day engagement at the Lyric theatre. The cast includes Jack Holt, Johnny Harron and Phoebe Hunt. The story is pure drama, but there are moments of comic relief that are genuine and highly amusing. You will enjoy it.

Faurot—'Abraham Lincoln'
ONE of the most sentimental successes in years was scored by John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" with Frank McGlynn, which local playgoers will be fortunate to see at the Faurot Opera House, Thursday night, April 20th, when William Harris, Jr., sends the only company on tour to this city.

Mr. Drinkwater has accomplished the remarkable feat of writing a diverting entertainment, a notable play, and a convincing, uplifting impression of the great historic character in one document. "Abraham Lincoln" the opinion of many only reiterates the opinion of many of many minds. It is something which has never been done before in the theatre and it may never be done again. The fame of Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" has been sounded thru the land for the past two years.

Therefore it is no exaggeration to say that this engagement will be one of the most important events the local theatre has had in many years. And, by the way, it is the final theatrical event of the season.

Mr. Harris has given the play a production worthy of its character and the leading player will be surrounded by a cast competent to give full value to each character. There are no small parts in "Abraham Lincoln" so small that how few lines are spoken by the actor. Each interpretation must be that of an actor of talent and experience. There is only one company on tour playing "Abraham Lincoln" and urgent demands for its appearance in other cities will prevent a return engagement here for a long time.

The Sigma Pictures
CHARLIE Ray's newest and swiftest picture, "Two Minutes To Go," in which he is cast as a grid-iron hero, opens a four day engagement today at the Sigma theatre. Mary Anderson is his leading lady.

"Two Minutes To Go" contains as much, if not more, action and thrills than did "Scrap Iron" Charlie's recent success. This time he is cast as Chet Burnett, a college boy, who because of financial reverses in his family, quits the football team and secretly spends his early morning hours as a milk wagon driver, in order to pay his way thru college. Everyone wonders why Chet has dropped out of the team, especially his sweetheart Ruth Turner. And when she discovers him trying to conceal the character of his work, she breaks off all friendly relations with him.

Goaded by his misfortunes, Chet resolves to return to the football team, which he has deserted. And the brilliant game he plays in the biggest contest of the season, proves the solution of all his troubles.

The production gives a humorous as well as a romantic glimpse into college life, and teams with human interest. The story is from the skillful pen of Richard Andre and is undoubtedly one of the best vehicles Charles has yet taken. He himself personally directed the production.

A thrilling football game is one of the features of the production. Real college football players appear in the two opposing teams, and a genuine game is played. In his college days, Charles Ray was a football player of no mean ability, and it seems that his early experience has served him well in the splendid exhibition he makes in "Two Minutes To Go."

Starting on Thursday, the Sigma's program will feature Zane Grey's newest screen drama "The Last

Charles Ray and Mary Anderson in "Two Minutes To Go" at The Sigma Theatre

Trail," produced along identical lines with the famous novel of the same name. A competent cast interprets the leading roles. Also, a new two reel comedy accompanies the showing.

The Majestic Pictures
"MADAME X," the classic of American literature and ever-popular stage play, is scheduled to appear today and Monday at the Majestic theatre. Miss Pauline Frederick, famous emotional actress, has the title role, and gives a most finished performance.

The plot of "Madame X" is sharply dramatic and tells of the sacrifice of the mysterious madame to save an innocent person from punishment. Miss Frederick is wonderful in the climax, and will leave an impression upon moviegoers long after the production has shown here.

On Tuesday the Majestic will present "A City Sparrow," in which Ethel Clayton has the leading role. Her part in the production ideally suits her talents and her supporting cast is excellent.

A Country Store contest, long a feature of the Majestic programs, will be given again on Thursday, at the evening performance.

MINSTRELSY AT ORPHEUM

An entire new show will be presented today at the Orpheum theatre by Boots Walton and his company. This is the first time this season that a minstrel revue has been offered and by all reports it's going to be a dandy show. Seats will be reserved for all three performances today and can be secured in advance.

Starting Easter Monday, April 17, the Orpheum theatre will inaugurate the summer policy of Musical Comedy stock and for this venture has secured the Rayner Lehr Musical Comedy Stock Co., which appeared here last week and made such a tremendous hit with Lima theatregoers. Rayner Lehr has promised Manager Shaw that he will give Orpheum patrons more than their money's worth. In a letter written to Shaw, Rayner writes: "In accepting the stock date, at your theatre I do so because I like Lima and Lima people. I'm going to give Lima theatregoers a show that will put Lima on the musical comedy map. For my opening bill I am going to present 'Baby Mine,' and that in itself will give you an idea of the class of bills I am going to give. I will follow it up with 'Turn to the Right,' 'Kick In,' '45 Minutes From Broadway,' and all the latest stock bills.

Mr. Lehr will enlarge his company to about thirty people. One show nightly will be given, starting at 8:15 with the exception of Saturday and Sunday, when the usual three performances daily will be given. The Orpheum theatre will be closed next week and will open on Easter Monday, April 17, with the above summer policy.

MANAGER'S ANNOUNCEMENT

Inquiry for "Abraham Lincoln" indicates it will be the most important engagement yet played here. We urge patrons to send in their mail orders at once to avoid disappointment.

Acclaimed by the people of two continents as the greatest play of the Nineteenth Century, it has been our good fortune to secure a leading John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" William Harris, Jr., the producer, was also responsible for "East Is West" with Fay Bainter as the star.

Patrons have our guarantee that this is the only company that has ever appeared in "Abraham Lincoln," and it is the largest dramatic organization on tour, carrying 25 people.

Frank McGlynn, who created the role of Lincoln in America, heads the cast.

Here is a great entertainment, the finest of acting, and the same company and production playgoers saw in New York, Chicago and other large cities. It is a play everyone should see. We, therefore, urge immediate reservations.

QUILNA THEATRE (FORMERLY REGENT) WILL BE OPENED SATURDAY

PARAMOUNT FILMS TO BE FEATURED

W. Market-st Movie Home To Make New Bid for Favor of Amusement Lovers

Play House is Now Owned by Lima Men—Lew Cunningham Will Manage It

NEXT Saturday afternoon at one o'clock the Quilna theatre (formerly the Regent) will open its doors to the public. Since the closing of the Regent, the interests in the theatre of the Buttefield Michigan circuit have been acquired by Lima men and with the changing of name to one in keeping with local history, a fixed, view of Paramount pictures, the installation of a magnificent new organ, the Quilna starts on what its friends all hope will be a prosperous endeavor to cater to the amusement loving people of Lima and vicinity. As the theatre is practically a one story little has been required to place it in condition for its spring season, tho there has been plenty of painting and renovating done, and little touches of decoration appropriate to its Indian name will be apparent.

The most impressive of the new things about the Quilna will be its Robert Norton Orchestral Organ. This has been installed by the H. P. Maus Piano Co., agents for the manufacture. It is made by the same people who invented the instrument now in the Faurot Opera House tho of a distinctly different type and of infinitely more power, tonal quality and flexibility. It is unquestionably the finest musical instrument in northwestern Ohio and will be found a valuable adjunct to the fine picture programs promised at the Quilna. Roy Thompson, who has had charge of the music at the Faurot for a number of years, will preside over it, another guarantee of musical excellence.

As before stated, Paramount pictures will predominate in the Quilna. All first-run engagements of the produce of this organization, which is regarded by everybody as the leader of the industry, will be played at the Quilna. They will be accompanied by news, comedy, travel and novelty films of the very best type.

For the opening attraction Manager Cunningham has selected the new Jesse L. Lasky production, "Her Husband's Trademark." Gloria Swanson will have the leading role, with Richard Wayne, Stuart Holmes, Clarence Burton, Charles Ogilvie, Charles Chapman, James Neil and Lucien Littlefield in other important characters. The scenes of the story, which was written by Clara Beranger, are laid in New York and Mexico. Gloria's gorgeous gowns are much in evidence in the first part of the picture and the Mexican scenes give her opportunity for some of the best dramatic acting she has yet indulged in.

Quite in keeping with the features will be the added attractions to grace the opening. Chief among these is Robert C. Bruce's "Wilderness Tales," one of his exquisite wilderness tales that combines both scenic and literary excellence. The Pathe News, best of all the news reels, and Paul Terrell's clever and funny caricatures of Aesop's Fables will also be on the bill.

As most of you are aware no theatre in Lima is better equipped than the Quilna to take care of the public so far as safety and comfort is concerned and the new management intends to use every means to make it popular. With Paramount pictures perfectly projected, unexcelled musical programs and a general endeavor to make it a theatre that all Lima may be proud of, it is very easy to see that this end will be attained.

The Faurot Pictures

A WIDE range of variety marks the Paramount picture programs to be offered at the Faurot this week. Today, for instance, we are to have Wallace Reid in a new comedy "Rent Free," Kinograms and James Oliver Curwood's dramatic playlet, "The White Mouse." There you have fun, romance, melodrama and news novelites. Mr. Reid's leading lady is Lila Lee and the supporting cast is of the best Lasky quality. "The White Mouse" has Lewis Stone, Wallace Beery and Ethel Gray Terry for its principal interpreters and these dependable artists give full due to Mr. Curwood's always enthralling stories. This program will be shown for three days only.

On Wednesday and Thursday we are to have another glimpse of the famous Polish actress, Pola Negri, who created such a furore in "Passion." This time Miss Negri appears under Paramount auspices in a massive and thrilling production entitled "The Last Payment." She is supported by a cast of European players and a host of extra people in the tremendously effective ensembles, inograms and a delightful demonstration of high diving by the illustrious Annette Kellerman are on the bill.

For Friday and Saturday the Faurot has secured the Paramount production of Sir Gilbert Parker's story, "The Lane That Had No Turning," with Agnes Ayres in the leading role. This picture not only marks the first stellar appearance of Miss Ayres, but the debut of Sir Gilbert Parker as a director of the making of one of his own entrancing plays. Theodore Kosloff, Mahlon Hamilton, Frank Campeau, Charles Est, Lillian Leighton and others, popular Paramount players are numbered in the supporting cast. The program will also contain Johnny Hines' latest comedy hit, "Torchy's Frame-Up."

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

THROUGHOUT the entire United States and the Dominion of Canada, general business conditions most definitely improved during the week just closed. In the money mart of the world, million and a half share days on the stock exchange evidenced participation on the part of the public. Values of rails, motors, oils, equipments and steels have so risen as to represent millions of dollars to holders of stocks. Bonds at the same time have advanced more moderately until Liberty issues are practically at par and destined for somewhere around $105.

The deterrent, for there is always a deterrent, is the coal strike. It has played no immediate part in industry. With any elongation, it will be a big retarding factor, with factories closing here, there, everywhere. While there is much storage of coal, it is an insignificant total in tons compared to daily consumption. The textiles are not as optimistic as a few months ago, with labor troubles appearing in New England. Grains and live stocks are destined for higher quotations, it is believed. The farmer is out of the mire, but industry on a whole, only moderately so.

Locally, actual conditions are not as roseate as over the nation at large. There is no perceptible increase in payrolls. Lack of working capital is being keenly felt by smaller concerns, and there are no new developments of any flattering character. Retail trade is brisk, with fifty per cent coming from the district.

Lack of money is retarding many building enterprises. All bids for a business block ready to go, were rejected as too high by promoters of this block. Municipal and some belated county work may tide common labor over the spring and summer, but the skilled building trades may run amuck unless supplies of money become freer, and there are concessions in wage.

Banks and Building and Loans remain short of funds. Seven per cent, or six with a commission charge, remains the prevailing money rate.

WHAT MAKES A LEADER

THE population of Windsor, N. H., is reduced to 15, but it still has a complete town government with seven official jobs.

A community after a politician's own heart! A wardheeler would describe it as "the right proportion."

Windsor was founded in 1798 in the heart of the New England deer country. Ten years ago it had 65 registered male voters.

Observe that, with population shrunken to only 15, Windsor still finds it necessary to maintain governmental machinery—town clerk, treasurer, selectmen (councilmen), school board and board of health.

The philosophical anarchist, follower of Josiah Warren, with a beautiful system for imaginary Utopia, should be interested in what Windsor has recognized as necessary.

SHIPWRECK two men on a desert island and a government would be set up within 24 hours. The man with the largest club and the strongest arm would elect himself ruler.

He would start out by announcing, with emphasis, "the best thing to do." If his companion manifested a stubborn will, force would be applied to compel submission. That is the germ of legislative and police powers.

FROM books like Jack London's "Call of the Wild," you know that every community of beasts, such as wolves, has for its ruler the one that can whip any corner.

The animal ruler is deposed when he runs up against a fellow beast that can conquer him.

So it was in the early stages of civilization. Then, with the dawn of intelligence, force had to share its throne with brains, personified in the medicine man of the tribe. Church clashed with state. Government by appeal to the emotions began.

Gradually, with our flexible system of democracy, we are working toward government by intelligence—horse sense.

VISIONARIES who would do away with leadership are up against a peculiar natural law. You see this law work in the Far North when 3000 fish eggs hatch into as many baby salmon trout. As soon as they start swimming one instinctively steps out as leader, others follow as a natural course.

GRADE CROSSING MENACE

LOCKING the garage after the automobile has been stolen is poor policy at best. Protecting grade crossings after large numbers of human lives have been snuffed out, is likewise the wrong sort of method of meeting a situation.

There are entirely too many unprotected grade crossings in Lima. Railroad trains have right of way, under certain restrictions. These requirements are not always observed by the men to whom is entrusted the task of operating the trains. A moment of carelessness, on the part of the engine driver or on the part of the driver of an auto—the penalty may be death!

Increasing numbers of automobiles and trucks have made it doubly necessary that railroad crossings be protected. The grade crossing takes its deadly toll month after month and year after year. When a fatal accident occurs, there is the usual period of condemnation of the death trap, declarations of action are made, resolutions are adopted and filed—then everybody forgets about it—until the next accident occurs. Then we go thru the same thing again.

City officials have complained about the danger existing at certain railroad crossings. Follow up the complaints with demands for action that will be heard. Removal of the menace will not come voluntarily on the part of railroad companies. Organized sentiment must be back of demands made.

One human life saved is worth more than the cost of protecting every crossing in the city. The chamber of commerce and all civic clubs should back the city officials in a demand for the elimination of death traps.

Do it now—before more precious lives are sacrificed.

CONTINUE THE GOOD WORK

LIMA'S annual "Cleanup Week" has come to a close. An inspection made by officials discloses that good results have been accomplished. However, there are many places that should have been given attention that remained untouched.

Conditions may have been such that it was impossible for owners of property in some instances to carry out the spirit of the week in a proper manner. Perhaps they were busy with other things considered more important. Whatever the reason may have been, the big thing is that it should be done.

It is not too late. It is not necessary that a "cleanup" period be continued by official decree. Cleanup, paintup, fixup should go on so long as such action is necessary—everywhere about the city. At least part of the time during the past week the work of cleaning up was hindered and hampered by unfavorable weather. In many places the ground was too wet to be "manicured." When the sun's rays remedy this condition, the owners should get in step with others about them—and clean up!

It is expected that every citizen of Lima have a well defined pride in his home city; that he do his part in making it attractive in every possible way. Laxity in the matter of public pride leaves a bad impression with visitors coming into the city. Cleaning up is infectious. When a few persons in a neighborhood give evidence in a marked degree of their civic pride, others quickly follow. Becoming a general movement, the laggards are finally forced in. The result is that neatness and attractiveness succeed untidiness and a shiftless appearance.

If you haven't cleaned up your premises, extend the period on your own responsibility. Cleanliness of body is next to Godliness, it is taught. Cleanliness and neatness of one's surroundings is equally desirable.

To the office, and sat. Whence came Paul V. Chivington, of Columbus, who married a Lima girl. And we chatted a bit. He was up for a "Limo" banquet. Waved to Ed M. Gordon, the newly chosen head of Rotary. He should do well as President, but not so sanguine on Jess Carpenter as a member of the board. Jess is a ball player and the captain wanted him on the board instead of the team. Walked a block with Dan Morris, the clothing king; he in festive mood over spring togery styles at his emporium. Discussed, too, with Jobey Kaufman, the steel Baron, who has gone back to work with his men at the Ohio Steel. He's ever the same debonaire prince, loafing or working, tho 1921 was hard on his nerves. If neurasthenia ever gets Jobey it will get him going 75 an hour under an accurate speedometer.

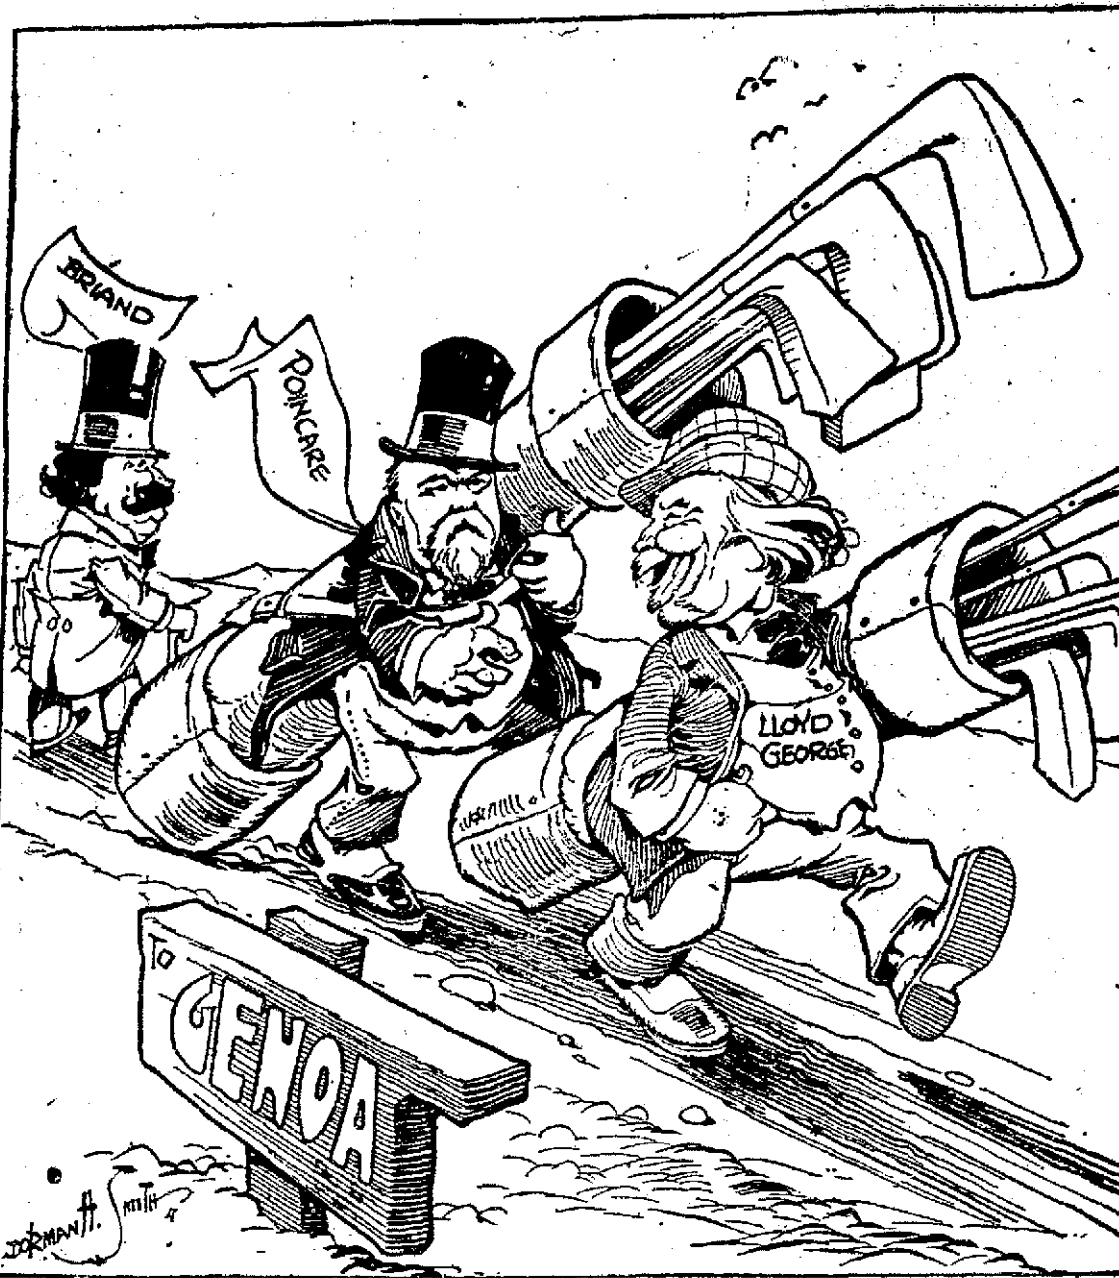

To lunch at the club with my wife, poor wretch, her first dining abroad in a fortnight. Saw there west end society represented by the charming Mrs. Knisely, wife of the eminent eye specialist; and the brilliant engaging Mrs. McLaughlin, wife of the underwriter. Had Bill Harper put our tables entwined and slipped our coffee, a quartet. They busied in washing machines. My wife, (an expert) ad-

So out, bowing in grandiose form to the ladies and feeling abashed over the condition of my chapeau. Must hold speech with Jim Jolley or Max Faulk. Think Max would listen and give heed. My rich St. Marys sister might guarantee the charge. Yes, I think it will be Max. Tarried a moment with Capt. Ed Christen, the bottler of the legal part of a highball. Business fine. Mountain dew can hardly be detected if you use the captain's gingerale. Hub bub in City Hall circles, but they raise the Steno's salary $25 and keep her.

Friend came in from Spencerville. I invited him to a cinema. Wanted to see Maurice Costello or King Baggot. Rip Van has nothing on that somnambulist. Took him to see Memorial hall and he asked the preacher's salary. Mygawd, no wonder bucket shops flourish, and oil stock salesmen support three wives. Came Ladies of St. Ritas guild for a dance benefit. I hope T. G. Harris cashes the check. He should, and muzzle that bookkeeper. I've quit paying any attention to her phone calls. Why can't banks appreciate your business like whitefolks? So home, and if there is anything more left of that soup bone, I'll give Frank Colucci a ring and invite myself to a dish of ravioli.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well
TREATING PALSY

In general there is no treatment that is of any avail in curing shaking palsy, or paralysis agitans, as it is technically known.

In the last few years, however, treatments have been found and given which resulted in great relief and marked improvement of some sufferers.

For those not so far advanced in this disease certain exercises may be utilized to excellent advantage.

Slow motions of the arms and legs continued 15 minutes three times a day will gradually lessen the shake, stiffness and pain.

After some weeks of this program, a palsy victim perhaps suddenly will have an hour of real rest from all tremors, stiffness, heaviness and pain. He may be able to sleep for half an hour without tossing about.

The exercises in detail which may be taken three times a day for 15 or 30 minutes are:

Right arm up to the shoulder, level and down. Right arm up in front and down. Right arm raised backward and down.

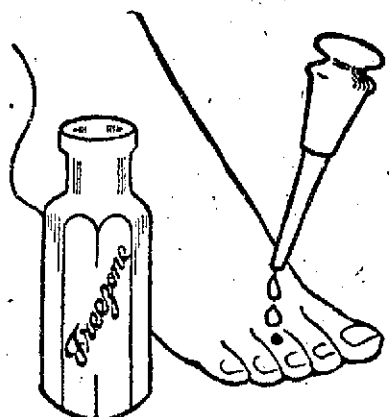

Then the same arm is extended, opened and shut, all motions to be made down slowly about one foot to four seconds.

The same callisthenics are carried out for the left arm, then each leg in turn. Each exercise is repeated three times, with all clothing loose. The essential element is slowness.

This treatment gives great relief to the intense suffering as long as it is kept up, but the improvement soon relapses if the patient becomes indifferent.

POEMS YOU WILL ENJOY

By BERTON BRALEY

AS TRUE AS EVER
It's fun to go forth on your travels
Wherever you may be inclined;
To watch how the highway unravels
And leaves things familiar behind;
There's joy in the heart of the rover
Wherever he happens to roam,
But when all the wandering's over
It's good to come home!

The strangers you've met may have Grown kind
And places you've lingered have Grown fine,
It's great to get back to your own
Kind,
Of whom you can say, "They are mine!"
And whether, by chance, you're returning
To mansion, apartment, or shack, You'll say, "Here's an end of my yearning,
I'm glad to get back!"

Your town may be rainy or drowful,
But just keep this thought in your dome,
Old John Howard Paine said
mouthful
Regarding the pleasures of home
And since he undoubtedly said it
Much better than I—as you say—
I'll slip Mr. Paine all the credit—
And call it a day!

ANTI-THEFT SYSTEM LEFT TO INSURANCE FIRMS

Englishman Devises Plan to Curb Losses

By NEA SERVICE

LONDON — To stop thefts register every automobile in the country with the insurance companies. Then let these companies check up on each car entered for insurance, to be certain of its rightful ownership.

This is the idea of F. S. Broad, manager of the Bell Assurance Association, which has been investigating England's method of theft prevention.

The prevention system consists of issuing registration books and license discs to each automobile owner. But counterfeit books and discs have appeared and have made it easy for anyone to prove his ownership of a stolen car, says Broad.

COMPLETE RECORDS

According to Broad's plan, every car made in England, besides those exported and imported, would be recorded in a national card index system. The most important information on each card would be the chassis number.

If a car is stolen it would found as soon as application was made for reinsurance, says Broad. By referring to the central register the insurance agent would find the car had been stolen. At present there is no such checkup in any country.

CHASSIS CHECK

Altering the chassis number could this system, for the new number not help the thief to circumvent the law, or to be fictitious.

Broad's system would make automobiles theftproof, especially in the United States, he says, where there are laws governing the transfer of automobiles. It would not cost the motorist anything additional because the insurance companies would assume all costs as part of their business.

H. A. Biggs Talks on Ideals in Building Automobiles

Studebaker Vice-President Tells Story of Studebaker's Rise to Position of Largest Manufacturers of Six-Cylinder Cars in the World—Public, Not Studebaker, Originated the Slogan "This Is a Studebaker Year"

By H. A. BIGGS

Vice-President

The Studebaker Corporation

In the long run value tells, whether in an automobile or any other article, and the manufacturer who offers most for the money rises to the greatest success. There may be times when this fact is not so apparent. For instance, when this country, returning to an era of peace, faced a great demand for goods with production at a low ebb, previously accepted standards of value were for the most part lost sight of.

This period — the year 1919, to be exact — paved the way for Studebaker's rise to the position of the world's largest manufacturers of six-cylinder cars. True, the prices of Studebaker cars went up, as prices of everything went up, but our profits were no greater, for our prices increased only in proportion to the greater costs of raw materials and labor. In other words, although we could have sold our cars for considerably more than their list prices, we were all the while thinking not only of 1919 and 1920, but of the years to come.

As a result, our cars at their highest prices showed an amazingly small increase over their lowest prices, and in addition they incorporated many features of appointments in design that made them really worth more. Our sole object was to retain and enhance the good will we had built up.

In like manner, when prices began to show a downward trend, we kept pace, lowering our prices as fast as power costs of raw material and greater efficiency of labor permitted. The cumulative effect of this policy was felt thru the results achieved in 1921, and will, I believe, be even more in evidence in 1922.

Much comment has been aroused over the slogan "This is a Studebaker Year." In fact, it has been perhaps the most widely quoted slogan in years. It began with the public — a spontaneous expression of Studebaker supremacy. It seems to be echoed everywhere — in smoking compartments, on transcontinental trains, on the streets, in all public places where people gather. Conversation invariably seems to turn to a discussion of automobiles. One man says, "Well, this is certainly a Studebaker year" another answers, "It surely is, the way they are selling cars is really astounding" and a third says, "Well, no wonder, they've got a great car."

And so it goes. And, as I have said, the fact of the matter is that the slogan "This is a Studebaker Year" originated with the public, not with us, and we were forced by public sentiment to adopt it. This slogan is not, and was never intended to be, a prophecy which might not come true, but a statement of a condition as it actually exists. It is a reflection of the way people think and talk about us, the respect and confidence which the name Studebaker inspires, and the quality, performance and dollar-for-dollar value that have placed our cars in such great demand.

If we reaped the harvest in 1921, and paved the way to greater rewards in 1922 and the years to come, the answer, I believe, is to be found in the one fact that we preferred to maintain our established ideals of quality and fair prices rather than resort to any expediency that would cause these ideals to suffer. Little wonder, then, that the public continues to echo more and more widely and frequently the slogan "This is a Studebaker Year."

TABLE INDEX FOR FORD VALUES

Showing How Ford Cars Now Sell for Less Than in 1917

Forest R. Woolley, manager of the Fordson Tractor and Power Farming Department of the Timmerman Motor Sales Co., authorized Ford and Fordson dealer Lima and territory, in interview with the Lima News yesterday, says:

"This is a time when comparative prices are of interest to everyone and especially the farmer." "As has often been stated the farmer is more interested in the purchasing power of his products than in the absolute prices. Above all things the farmer desires to do business on equitable basis. Statistics show that in general he is still handicapped in this matter but there are some products which he can purchase today on a more advantageous basis than in 1914. The products of the Ford Motor Co., come in this class.

"In Table I, the index number for the prices of all commodities as issued by the U. S. Department of Labor are given for significant years. The high point, 272, was reached in May 1920. These figures mean that in 1920 it required on the average $243.00 to purchase the goods which cost $100.00 in 1914. In Table II, the significant prices of the products of the Ford Motor Co., are given. As the tractor and truck were not produced in 1914 the comparison of Ford prices with other prices can be obtained by taking the five unit list at the top of Table I. While the index number of the prices of all commodities increased from 100 in 1914 to 176 in 1917 the prices of the Ford products dropped. In fact 1917 marked the low point in the prices of Ford products previous to 1922. The high point in the prices of these Ford products was reached in 1920 but then the average was compared with 100 in 1914 and 152 compared with the low point of 1917. Today Ford prices are the lowest they have ever been considering the equipment furnished for the starter and demountable rims are regular equipment on the Coupe and Sedan which was not the case in 1917 or previous to this date. Taking 100 as the index number in 1914, these products stand today at 71.

"The truck has been reduced to 66 per cent of its value in 1920 and well below the lowest previous price which was quoted in 1919. The tractor has been reduced to $395.00 which is only 46.5 per cent of the price, $850.00 for which it was sold in 1920.

"In many cases the farmer can buy Ford products for less bushels of grain, pounds of meat or other farm products than in 1914 and if it was not for excessive freight rates and government taxes this would be universally true.

WHERE DOES THE WATER GO TO

Question That Every Motorist is Deeply Concerned About

"Where does the water go to?" is the question of the inquiring visitor to the battery service station. His battery gets thirsty and needs refilling with distilled water frequently, but just why this is true is something most car drivers have never given much thought.

The Willard Storage Battery company has spent thousands of dollars on booklets and advertisements in their efforts to impress the need of regular battery filling upon the public. They have even gone to the trouble of having a moving picture film made on this subject which shows how the water evaporates thru normal use, which necessitates replenishing regularly. This film will be seen by thousands of people who would not otherwise get the few simple rules of battery care.

The purpose of this film is primarily to help motorists get better service and greater mileage from their batteries and in order to accomplish this result a great deal of pains were taken to make it more vivid. It's direction was placed in the hands of an experienced feature play director and actors were selected who could best meet the requirements of the different roles.

The Lima Storage Battery Co., who represents the Willard Company in Lima are enthusiastic about the newest All-Rubber Willard Battery which contains the well known Threaded Rubber insulation. This Company specializes in frog testing and filling service for all makes of batteries.

Cord tires standard equipment on all models

THE Studebaker LIGHT-SIX will appeal to every buyer who wants a low-priced car that will be satisfactory in performance, appearance, comfort and endurance.

And in addition to its recognized superiority in these essentials, the LIGHT-SIX carries refinements found only on more expensive cars.

The LIGHT-SIX is equipped with cowl ventilator operated from the instrument board; cowl parking lights; inside and outside door handles and large rectangular plate-glass window in rear curtain. A thief-proof transmission lock, which reduces the rate of insurance to LIGHT-SIX owners 15 to 20 per cent, and cord tires are also standard equipment.

Long, semi-elliptic springs (50-inch in rear; 36-inch in front) and soft, genuine leather upholstered cushions, nine inches deep, provide unusual comfort.

Its 40-horsepower motor delivers ample power for the hard pull. And vibration is practically eliminated by Studebaker's method of machining the crankshaft and connecting rods.

The intrinsic value of the LIGHT-SIX is unmatched at anywhere near the price because Studebaker does not skimp on materials or workmanship but uses the best. It is built complete in the most modern and complete automobile plant in the world, making possible its low price of $1045, f. o. b. factory.

Studebaker has been building quality vehicles and selling them at fair prices for nearly three-quarters of a century and is the largest builder of six-cylinder cars in the world.

Touring, $1045; 3-Passenger Roadster, $1045; Coupe-Roadster, $1375; Sedan, $1750. All prices f. o. b. factory.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

THROUGHOUT the entire United States and the Dominion of Canada, general business conditions most definitely improved during the week just closed. In the money mart of the world, million and a half share days on the stock exchange evidenced participation on the part of the public. Values of rails, motors, oils, equipments and steels have so risen as to represent millions of dollars to holders of stocks. Bonds at the same time have advanced more moderately until Liberty issues are practically at par and destined for somewhere around $105.

The deterrent, for there is always a deterrent, is the coal strike. It has played no immediate part in industry. With any elongation, it will be a big retarding factor, with factories closing here, there, everywhere. While there is much storage of coal, it is an insignificant total in tons compared to daily consumption. The textiles are not as optimistic as a few months ago, with labor troubles appearing in New England. Grains and live stocks are destined for higher quotations, it is believed. The farmer is out of the mire, but industry on a whole, only moderately so.

Locally, actual conditions are not as rosy as over the nation at large. There is no perceptible increase in payrolls. Lack of working capital is being keenly felt by smaller concerns, and there are no new developments of any flattering character. Retail trade is brisk, with fifty per cent coming from the district.

Lack of money is retarding many building enterprises. All bids for a business block ready to go, were rejected as too high by promoters of this block. Municipal and some belated county work may tide common labor over the spring and summer, but the skilled building trades may run amuck unless supplies of money become freer, and there are concessions in wage.

Banks and Building and Loans remain short of funds. Seven per cent, or six with a commission charge, remains the prevailing money rate.

WHAT MAKES A LEADER

THE population of Windsor, N. H., is reduced to 15, but it still has a complete town government with seven official jobs.

A community after a politician's own heart! A wardheeler would describe it as "the right proportion."

Windsor was founded in 1798 in the heart of the New England deer country. Ten years ago it had 65 registered male voters.

Observe that, with population shrunken to only 15, Windsor still finds it necessary to maintain governmental machinery—town clerk, treasurer, selectmen (councilmen), school board and board of health.

The philosophical anarchist, follower of Josiah Warren, with a beautiful system for imaginary Utopia, should be interested in what Windsor has recognized as necessity.

SHIPWRECK two men on a desert island and a government would be set up within 24 hours. The man with the largest club and the strongest arm would elect himself ruler.

He would start out by announcing, with emphasis, "the best thing to do." If his companion manifested a stubborn will, force would be applied to compel submission. That is the germ of legislative and police powers.

FROM books like Jack London's "Call of the Wild," you know that every community of beasts, such as wolves, has for its ruler the one that can whip any comer.

The animal ruler is deposed when he runs up against a fellow beast that can conquer him.

So it was in the early stages of civilization. Then, with the dawn of intelligence, force had to share its throne with brains, personified in the medicine man of the tribe. Church clashed with state. Government by appeal to the emotions began.

Gradually, with our flexible system of democracy, we are working toward government by intelligence—horse sense.

VISIONARIES who would do away with leadership are up against a peculiar natural law. You see this law work in the Far North when 3000 fish eggs hatch into as many baby salmon trout. As soon as they start swimming one instinctively steps out as leader, others follow as a natural course.

GRADE CROSSING MENACE

LOCKING the garage after the automobile has been stolen is poor policy at best. Protecting grade crossings after large numbers of human lives have been snuffed out, is likewise the wrong sort of method of meeting a situation.

There are entirely too many unprotected grade crossings in Lima. Railroad trains have right of way, under certain restrictions. These requirements are not always observed by the men to whom is entrusted the task of operating the trains. A moment of carelessness, on the part of the engine driver or on the part of the driver of an auto—the penalty may be death!

Increasing numbers of automobiles and trucks have made it doubly necessary that railroad crossings be protected. The grade crossing takes its deadly toll month after month and year after year. When a fatal accident occurs, there is the usual period of condemnation of the death trap, declarations of action are made, resolutions are adopted and filed—then everybody forgets about it—until the next accident occurs. Then we go thru the same thing again.

City officials have complained about the danger existing at certain railroad crossings. Follow up the complaints with demands for action that will be heard. Removal of the menace will not come voluntarily on the part of railroad companies. Organized sentiment must be back of demands made.

One human life saved is worth more than the cost of protecting every crossing in the city. The chamber of commerce and all civic clubs should back the city officials in a demand for the elimination of death traps.

Do it now—before more precious lives are sacrificed.

CONTINUE THE GOOD WORK

LIMA'S annual "Cleanup Week" has come to a close. An inspection made by officials discloses that good results have been accomplished. However, there are many places that should have been given attention that remained untouched.

Conditions may have been such that it was impossible for owners of property in some instances to carry out the spirit of the week in a proper manner. Perhaps they were busy with other things considered more important. Whatever the reason may have been, the big thing is that it should be done.

It is not too late. It is not necessary that a "cleanup" period be continued by official decree. Cleanup, paintup, fixup should go on so long as such action is necessary—everywhere about the city. At least part of the time during the past week the work of cleaning up was hindered and hampered by unfavorable weather. In many places the ground was too wet to be "manicured." When the sun's rays remedy this condition, the owners should get in step with others about them—and clean up!

It is expected that every citizen of Lima have a well defined pride in his home city; that he do his part in making it attractive in every possible way. Laxity in the matter of public pride leaves a bad impression with visitors coming into the city. Cleaning up is infectious. When a few persons in a neighborhood give evidence in a marked degree of their civic pride, others quickly follow. Becoming a general movement, the laggards are finally forced in. The result is that neatness and attractiveness succeed untidiness and a shabby appearance.

If you haven't cleaned up your premises, extend the period on your own responsibility. Cleanliness of body is next to Godliness, it is taught. Cleanliness and neatness of one's surroundings is equally desirable.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well
TREATING PALSY

In general there is no treatment that is of any avail in curing shaking palsy, or paralysis agitans, as it is technically known.

In the last few years, however, treatments have been found and given which resulted in great relief and marked improvement of some sufferers.

For those not too far advanced in this disease certain exercises may be utilized to excellent advantage. Slow motions of the arms and legs continued 15 minutes three times a day will gradually lessen the shake, stiffness and pain.

After some weeks of this program, a palsy victim perhaps suddenly will have an hour of real rest from all tremors, stiffness, heaviness and pain. He may be able to sleep for half an hour without tossing about.

The exercises in detail which may be taken three times a day for 15 or 30 minutes are:

Right arm up to the shoulder, level and down. Right arm up in front and down. Right arm raised backward and down.

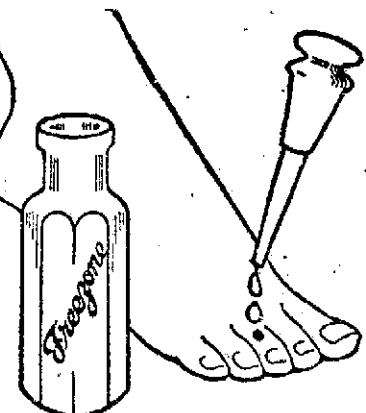

Then the same arm is extended, opened and shut, all motions to be made down slowly about one foot to four seconds.

The same callisthenics are carried out for the left arm, then each leg in turn. Each exercise is repeated three times, with all clothing loose. The essential element is slowness.

This treatment gives great relief to the intense suffering as long as it is kept up, but the improvement soon relapses if the patient becomes indifferent.

POEMS YOU WILL ENJOY

By BENJON BRALY

AS TRUE AS EVER
It's fun to go forth on your travels
Wherever you may be inclined;
To watch how the highway unravels
And leaves things familiar behind;
There's joy in the heart of the rover
Wherever he happens to roam.
But when all the wandering's over
It's good to come home!

The strangers you've met may have grown kind
And places you've lingered seem fine.
It's great to get back to your own kind,
Of whom you can say, "They are mine!"
And whether, by chance, you're returning
To mansion, apartment, or shack,
You'll say, "Here's an end of my yearning,
I'm glad to get back!"

Your town may be rainy or droughtful,
But just keep this thought in your dome,
Old John Howard Paine said a mouthful
Regarding the pleasures of home;
And since he undoubtedly said it,
Much better than I—as you say—
I'll slip Mr. Paine all the credit—
And call it a day!

ANTI-THEFT SYSTEM LEFT TO INSURANCE FIRMS

Englishman Devises Plan to Curb Losses

By NEA SERVICE
LONDON — To stop thefts register every automobile in the country with the insurance companies. Then let these companies check up on each car entered for insurance, to be certain of its rightful ownership. This is the idea of F. S. Broad, manager of the Bell Assurance Association, which has been investigating England's method of theft prevention.

The prevention system consists of issuing registration books and license discs to each automobile owner. But counterfeit books and discs have appeared and have made it easy for anyone to prove his ownership of a stolen car, says Broad.

COMPLETE RECORDS.
According to Broad's plan, every car made in England, besides those exported and imported, would be recorded in a national card index system. The most important information on each card would be the chassis number.

If a car is stolen it would found as soon as application was made for its insurance, says Broad. By referring to the central register the insurance agent would find the car had been stolen. At present there is no such checkup in any country.

CHASSIS CHECK.
Altering the chassis number could this system, for the new number not help the thief to circumvent would be found to belong to another car, or to be fictitious.

Broad's system would make automobiles theftproof, especially in the United States, he says, where there are laws governing the transfer of automobiles. It would not cost the motorist anything additional because the insurance companies would assume all costs as part of their business.

DEALERS INCREASE.

H. A. Biggs Talks on Ideals In Building Automobiles

Studebaker Vice-President Tells Story of Studebaker's Rise to Position of Largest Manufacturers of Six-Cylinder Cars in the World—Public, Not Studebaker, Originated the Slogan "This Is a Studebaker Year"

By H. A. BIGGS
Vice-President

The Studebaker Corporation. In the long run value tells, whether in an automobile or any other article, and the manufacturer who offers most for the money rises to the greatest success. There may be times when this fact is not so apparent. For instance, when this country, returning to an era of peace, faced a great demand for goods with production at a low ebb, previously accepted standards of value were for the most part lost sight of.

This period—the year 1919, to be exact—paved the way for Studebaker's rise to the position of the world's largest manufacturers of six-cylinder cars. True, the prices of Studebaker cars went up, as prices of everything went up, but our profits were no greater, for our prices increased only in proportion to the greater costs of raw materials and labor. In other words, while we could have sold our cars for considerably more than their list prices, we were all the while thinking not only of 1919 and 1920, but of the years to come.

As a result, our cars at their highest prices showed an amazingly small increase over their lowest prices, and in addition they incorporated many features of appointments in design that made them really worth more. Our sole object was to retain and enhance the good will we had built up.

In like manner, when prices began to show a downward trend, we kept pace, lowering our prices as fast as lower costs of raw material and greater efficiency of labor permitted. The cumulative effect of this policy was felt thru the results achieved in 1921, and will, I believe, be even more in evidence in 1922.

Much comment has been aroused over the slogan "This is a Studebaker Year." In fact, it has been perhaps the most widely quoted slogan in years. It began with the public—a spontaneous expression of Studebaker supremacy. It seems to be echoed everywhere—in smoking compartments, on transportation trains, on the streets, in all public places where people gather. Conversation invariably seems to turn to a discussion of automobiles. One man says, "Well, this is certainly a Studebaker year," another answers, "It surely is, the way they are selling cars is really astounding," and a third says, "Well, no wonder, they've got a great car."

And so it goes. And as I have said, the fact of the matter is that the slogan "This is a Studebaker Year" originated with the public, not with us, and we were forced by public sentiment to adopt it. This slogan is not, and was never intended to be, a prophecy which might not come true, but a statement of a condition as it actually exists. It is a reflection of the way people think and talk about us, the respect and confidence which the name Studebaker inspires, and the quality, performance and dollar-for-dollar value that have placed our cars in such great demand.

If we reaped the harvest in 1921, and paved the way to greater rewards in 1922 and the years to come, the answer, I believe, is to be found in the one fact that we preferred to maintain our established ideals of quality and fair prices rather than resort to any expediency that would cause these ideals to suffer. Little wonder, then, that the public continues to echo more and more widely and frequently the slogan "This is a Studebaker Year."

TABLE INDEX FOR FORD VALUES

Showing How Ford Cars Now Sell for Less Than in 1917

Forest R. Woolley, manager of the Fordson Tractor and Power Farming Department of the Timmerman Motor Sales Co., authorized Ford and Fordson dealer Lima and territory, in interview with the Lima News yesterday, says:

"This is a time when comparative prices are of interest to everyone and especially the farmer."
"As has often been stated the farmer is more interested in the purchasing power of his products than in the absolute prices. Above all things the farmer desires to do business on equitable basis. Statistics show that in general he is still handicapped in this matter but there are some products which he can purchase today on a more advantageous basis than in 1917. The products of the Ford Motor Co., come in this class."

"In Table I, the index number for the prices of all commodities as issued by the U. S. Department of Labor are given for significant years. The high point, 272, was reached in May, 1920. These figures mean that in 1920 it required on the average $243.00 to purchase the goods which cost $100.00 in 1917. In Table II, the significant prices of the products of the Ford Motor Co., are given. As the tractor and truck were not produced in 1917 the comparison of Ford prices with other prices can be obtained by taking the five units listed at the top of Table I. While the index number of the prices of all commodities increased from 100 in 1917 to 176 in 1917 the prices of the Ford products dropped. In fact 1917 marked the low point in the prices of Ford products previous to 1922. The high point in the prices of these Ford products was reached in 1920 but then the average was 108 compared with 100 in 1917 and 152 as compared with the low point of 1917. Today Ford prices are the lowest they have ever been considering the equipment furnished for the starter and demountable rims are regular equipment on the Coupe and Sedan which was not the case in 1917 or previous to this date. Taking 100 as the index number in 1917, these products stand today at 71.

"The truck has been reduced to 66 per cent of its value in 1920 and well below the lowest previous price which was quoted in 1919. The tractor has been reduced to $395.00 which is only 46.5 per cent of the price, $850.00 for which it was sold in 1920.

"In many cases the farmer can buy Ford products for less bushels of grain, pounds of meat or other farm products than in 1917 and if it was not for excessive freight rates and government taxes this would be universally true.

WHERE DOES THE WATER GO TO

Question That Every Motorist Is Deeply Concerned About

"Where does the water go to?" is the question of the inquiring visitor to the battery service station. His battery gets thirsty and needs refilling with distilled water frequently, but just why this is true is something most car drivers have never given much thought.

The Willard Storage Battery company has spent thousands of dollars on booklets and advertisements in their efforts to impress the need of regular battery filling upon the public. They have even gone to the trouble of having a moving picture film made on this subject which shows how the water evaporates thru normal use, which necessitates replenishing regularly. This film will be seen by thousands of people who would not otherwise get the few simple rules of battery care.

The purpose of this film is primarily to help motorists get better service and greater mileage from their batteries and in order to accomplish this result a great deal of pains were taken to make it more vivid. It's direction was placed in the hands of an experienced feature play director and actors were selected who could best meet the requirements of the different roles.

The Lima Storage Battery Co., who represents the Willard Company in Lima are enthusiastic about the newest All-Rubber Willard Battery which contains the well known Thru-Rubber Insulation. This company specializes in free testing and filling service for all makes of batteries.

How the Famous Disc Clutch of the Buick "Four" Proved Itself

The same design of disc clutch that was used in the powerful war tanks is likewise used in the Buick Four.

The Buick clutch under the most gruelling conditions has proved itself absolutely positive, dependable, and easy to operate—a clutch that demonstrated the same certainty and safety for unforeseen emergency that it did for ordinary service.

This thoroughly trustworthy clutch is a development of 20 years of consistent effort. It is typically representative of the standards governing the construction of the Buick Four throughout.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

This 50 Horse Power Beauty Brings You Paige Mastery at $1465

WITH the fifty horse power motor of the Paige 6-44 you can accelerate from five to twenty-five miles per hour in nine seconds flat. Stop and think what this amazing flexibility means in city driving as well as on the hills.

Such rare spirit is, of course, not accidental. It is the result of years of patient study and research. It is the active expression of a fully perfected, six cylinder power plant that is designed and built by men who know how.

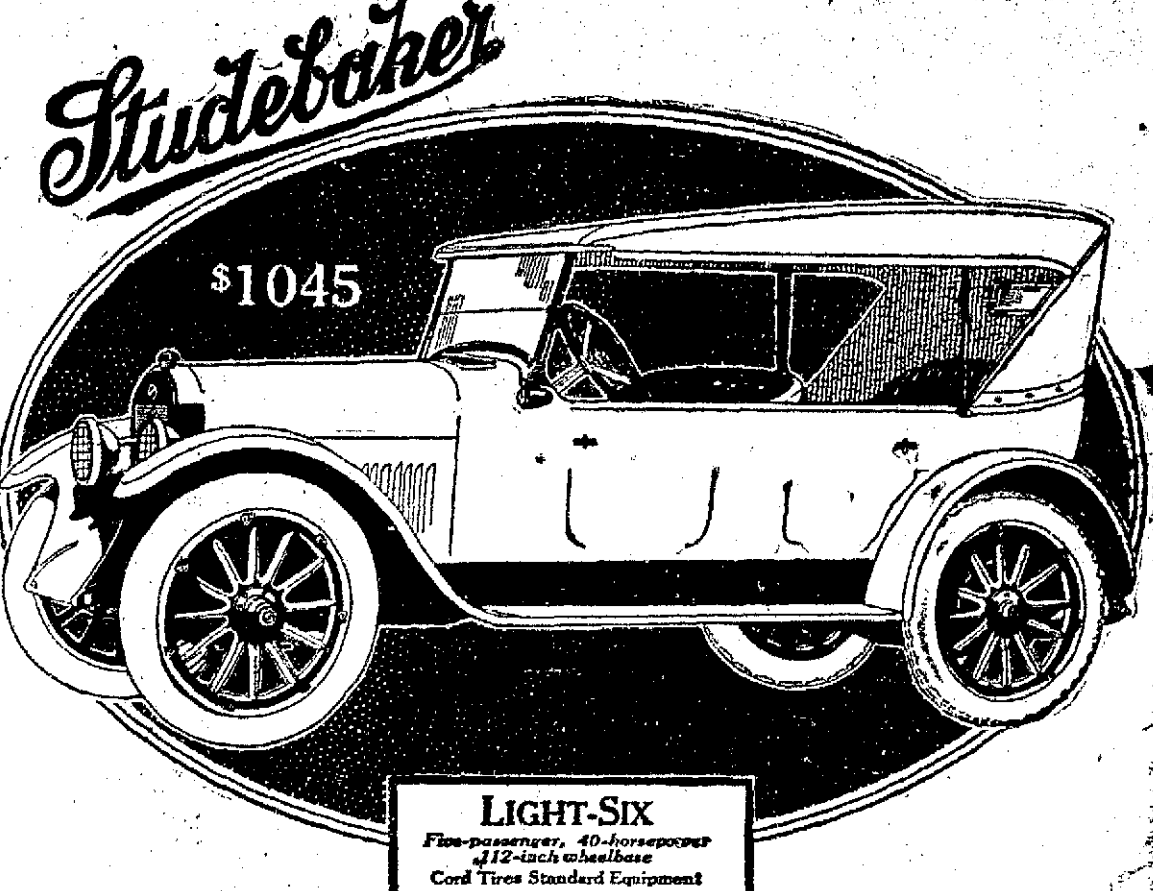

Why not take a ride in the 6-44 today? Get out where you can challenge that mighty reservoir of power. Sink back in the cushions and experience the comfort of oversize springs and perfect distribution of weight.

Then remember that this great car—formerly priced at $1965—can be your comrade and helpmate for only $1465.

Cord tires standard equipment on all models

THE Studebaker LIGHT-SIX will appeal to every buyer who wants a low-priced car that will be satisfactory in performance, appearance, comfort and endurance.

And in addition to its recognized superiority in these essentials, the LIGHT-SIX carries refinements found only on more expensive cars.

The LIGHT-SIX is equipped with cowl ventilator operated from the instrument board; cowl parking lights; inside and outside door handles and large rectangular plate-glass window in rear curtain. A thief-proof transmission lock, which reduces the rate of insurance to LIGHT-SIX owners 15 to 20 per cent, and cord tires are also standard equipment.

Long, semi-elliptic springs (50-inch in rear; 36-inch in front) and soft, genuine leather upholstered cushions, nine inches deep, provide unusual comfort. Its 40-horsepower motor delivers ample power for the hard pull. And vibration is practically eliminated by Studebaker's method of machining the crankshaft and connecting rods.

The intrinsic value of the LIGHT-SIX is unmatched at anywhere near the price because Studebaker does not skimp on materials or workmanship but uses the best. It is built complete in the most modern and complete automobile plant in the world, making possible its low price of $1045, f. o. b. factory.

Studebaker has been building quality vehicles and selling them at fair prices for nearly three-quarters of a century and is the largest builder of six-cylinder cars in the world.

Touring, $1045; 3-Passenger Roadster, $1045; Coupe Roadster, $1375; Sedan, $1750. All prices f. o. b. factory.

UNIFORM ROUTE MARKING

New England Starts New System of Road Signs.

(By NEA Service)

BOSTON, Mass.—What is expected to develop into a uniform route marking system for the entire country is being inaugurated in New England.

Roads hitherto marked by lines and symbols that confused rather than helped motorists are being numbered so that no doubt may arise in the mind of strangers as to the correctness of their routes.

Red, blue and yellow bands are being painted out in Massachusetts. The various markings along the New Hampshire roads are disappearing and the individual state highway designations in Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut are giving way to the new system.

ONE SYMBOL

Instead of these there will be a uniform symbol on all the highways, federal, state and local—a large yellow square, with a heavy black border. Within the square will be a black numeral—the number of the road, according to a systematic designation of all the country's highways.

The symbol and other details of this new plan were decided upon at a recent meeting of the Automobile Club of America, the New England Hotel Men's Association, Automobile Blue Book publishers and highway officials from all the New England states.

NUMBERING SYSTEM

Route No. 1 is to run north and south along the Atlantic coast, from the international boundary at Calais, Me., down to New York and eventually to the southern end of Florida.

In the same manner other main highways will be extended, in accordance with this numbering system, so that all designations will be the same throughout the country.

O. M. Wells, chief road man of the Automobile Club of America, is plotting the routes and numbering them. Short state routes, not reaching beyond state boundaries, are to be numbered above 100.

The lettering will be four inches high. The larger highways will be numbered from 1 to 100, with six-inch black numerals within the uniform square.

The numbering plan will not interfere with naming the routes, says Wells, but it will help motorists keep on the same highway.

AUTO NOTES

First two-cylinder automobile came out in 1905. England has more than 4000 owner-drivers of motor trucks. New jobless auto is built practically without axle or chassis frame. American motor car manufacturers have a virtual monopoly in Peru.

With battery ignition the spark gap may be larger than with high tension magnet ignition.

Newspaper placed underneath the engine will tell it and where it is leaking oil.

New York state puts a limit of 25,000 pounds gross weight for motor vehicles.

In one month last year Mexicans bought 507 passenger automobiles in this country.

There are more than 600 truck lines in operation in America, 150 of which are in Canada.

A union station in Los Angeles is used exclusively for motor truck lines.

Five tons gross weight for motor vehicles is the maximum allowed in the state of Washington.

Phaeton is the name decided on by the Society of Automobile Engineers for the touring car type.

Average tire reaches a temperature of 140 degrees when run at 20 miles an hour.

Popular automobile manufacturer says 43 per cent of his cars are sedans.

Investment in the automobile industry in 1939 amounted to nearly $6,000,000.

Development of the modern internal explosive engine first began in 1744.

In proportion to population there are more automobiles in Mexico City than in any city of South America.

Many former automobile owners in Japan are giving up the use of their cars because of the high tax rate.

Henry Ford is said to be working on a plan to manufacture automobiles from cotton, formaldehyde and glue.

More than 60 types of passenger automobiles manufactured in the United States have four-cylinder engines.

Americans, touring France are supplied with a "code of the road" booklet by the minister of public works.

USES FOR OLD TUBES

A worn old inner tube can be cut up and put to several good uses. Part can cover up the distributor cap and ignition wires so no water will get in while it is raining or the car is being washed. Strips can be laid on the clutch and brake pedals, or around the opening to keep out drafts.

Wads of rubber can be wedged into spots where rattles are caused. The battery could be covered up and protected against dirt and moisture, and a temporary hose connection can be made of a strip.

CLUTCH LOCK FOR AUTO

A strong home-made automobile lock may be made to keep the clutch out and the brake pedal in one position. It consists of an iron or steel sleeve to fit around the brake arm, with an arm stretching from the sleeve and holding down the clutch pedal. A padlock keeps the steel sleeve in place. The only way the car could be stolen, with this lock attached, would be by breaking the lock or towing away the car.

Vehicle traffic over the new Michigan boulevard bridge in Chicago, is nearly twice that over the London bridge.

Uruguay, smallest country in South America, has more good roads than any other country on the continent.

During this week there will be opened at 38 Public Square in the room formerly occupied by the Allen Jewelry Co., a cut rate tire store, The Star Tire Co. will handle a variety of tires at low prices and will be in charge of L. G. Harris.

HOW OLDFIELD CAME TO NAME TIRES "999"

Altho many automobile and truck owners in this city are already familiar with the symbol "999" as identifying the Oldfield tire for light motor vehicles it is very likely that few realize the historic interest that surrounds the creating of this name.

This was recently explained to the automobile editor of this paper by R. A. Conroy, of the Lima Tire & Supply Co. local distributors for the Oldfield line. It appears that in 1893 Henry Ford built the first racing car successfully produced in the United States and named it the "999". Selling it to Barney Oldfield, king of the speedways, this master mileage maker broke the one mile dirt track record and right there was born the idea that has now expanded into a master tire made by a master racer.

"What would be more natural," Mr. Conroy continued, "than that Barney should name the new tire after what was then the newest of ideas in automobiles? The new tire is a full size, 36x3 1-2 inch, four ply and it has everything in its manufacture that the master speedster's thirty year's experience on the speedway and in the tire manufacturing business can bring to it."

JOBS FOR GIRLS IN CHINA

Young Women With Business Training in Demand

BOSTON—(United Press)—American girls equipped to take secretarial positions will find a big field in China, Mrs. Luther M. Ferguson, daughter-in-law of Dr. John C. Ferguson, present personal advisor to the Chinese president, declared in an interview here.

Mrs. Ferguson, a graduate student at the College of Secretarial Science of Boston University, is familiar with conditions in China.

"There are many large concerns in China who would be glad to have the services of American girls with business training," Mrs. Ferguson said. "There are not enough girls in China, that is, competent ones, to fill the position, open."

"There is an opportunity to work along various lines. American firms doing commercial, medical, financial and law business are all demanding large secretarial forces. The young woman will not find the hours any longer than in business offices here in America. And there is plenty of recreation to be found in concerts, dances, horseback riding and other sports. There are also many art and musical clubs well organized."

"The salary, always a point of interest, averages about $300 a month (Chinese money), which is about $150 in United States currency. Because living is so much cheaper in China, the worker is able to save a considerable amount at the same time live in comfort."

Mrs. Ferguson pointed out that not every type of girl would be successful in the far orient.

"The young woman must be level headed and have had some special social training," Mrs. Ferguson declared. "The home life of the girl is attractive, many of the large firms furnishing dormitories for their workers, with chaperons, so that they are well protected."

The Bliss Auto Sales Co. To Sell Hudson-Essex Here

We are pleased to announce the opening of a new sales and service station at 771 West North Street to handle Hudson and Essex cars for the Lima territory.

It will be under the personal management of Mr. Dayton M. Clevenger, who was appointed expressly to insure Hudson and Essex patrons a service of the highest character.

The reputation of the Bliss Auto Sales Company, distributors, of Toledo, is the record which best guarantees a happy association for Hudson and Essex owners of Lima and vicinity.

To Serve Two Great Cars

For buyers today consider not only the qualities of the car they get, but the character of dealer association they thereby form.

Yet it is also true that no such dealer organization, as Hudson and Essex have built, could have been gathered about cars, that in themselves had not established a great public following; with abiding faith in their qualities.

The Hudson Super-Six is now in its sixth year as a leader among the world's fine cars. It holds its place rightfully by mechanical superiority, fine quality and appearance, and by a price advantage that makes it the best value among fine cars, by a wide margin.

And you already know what owners say of the economy, long life and reliability of the Essex. Certainly no car of its price was ever so widely compared in essential qualities to costly fine cars.

It is our wish to pledge the public a service that in all respects will match the uniformly high character of Hudson and Essex service, and be in all ways worthy of these two great cars.

Long Life and Reliability

The Hupmobile is a notable car for style.

It has great beauty. It is comfortable to the point of being luxurious.

But the thing that people tell each other most often, is that it is almost impossible to wear it out.

We are still supplying parts for the first Hupmobiles ever built, 12 and 13 years ago; and these cars are in use today all over the world.

Back of Hupmobile long life and reliability is the fact that its important parts and its precise shop practice, are similar, and as fine, as are employed in manufacturing the highest priced cars.

BIG BUSINESS FOR OVERLAND

New Prices Bring Volume of Business — Factory Working Hard to Fill Orders

The new Overland and Willys-Knight prices have created a big business for Overland dealers and the Overland factory is unable as yet to take care of the increased demand. The Overland touring car complete now sells for $550, f. o. b. factory. Equipment includes starter, electric lights, demountable rims, switch lock, dash light, standard tires, one man top, door opening curtains, electrically baked enamel finish, tire carrier, extra heavy fenders, linoleum covered running boards, electric transmission, spiral bevel triplex springs, oil gauge, standard differential gears and many features used on high priced cars. This car sold for $1035 a little over a year ago. The car is sold on easy monthly payments and there is only a small difference between the price of this completely equipped wonderfully riding and beautifully finished Overland car and the lowest priced car in the world. The new price of $1375 on the Willys-Knight touring car, f. o. b. factory, places it in a position never before attained by a sleeve valve motored car. Reduction of price in a little over a year of $925.

Closed car prices in both lines reflect similar reductions and the big business brought on by the new prices shows that the Overland and Willys-Knight lines stand out as two of the greatest automobile values in the world today.

For selectiveness in tuning and all-around efficiency, the regenerative set is the best. Practically all its parts, with the exception of the vacuum tube, can be made by the amateur.

The diagram shows the hook-up of the most efficient regenerative receiving set.

No. 1 is the vario coupler.
No. 2. A variable condenser. Although this is not absolutely necessary, this condenser adds selectiveness in tuning.
No. 3. A variometer in the grid circuit.

No. 4. The grid leak and grid condenser.
No. 5. The plate variometer or tickler.

No. 6. A 22-volt dry battery which may be purchased in any electrical store for about $1.25.
No. 7. The head phones, which should have between 2000 and 3000 ohms resistance.
No. 8. A 6-volt, 50 to 120-ampere-hour battery for the filament of the tube.

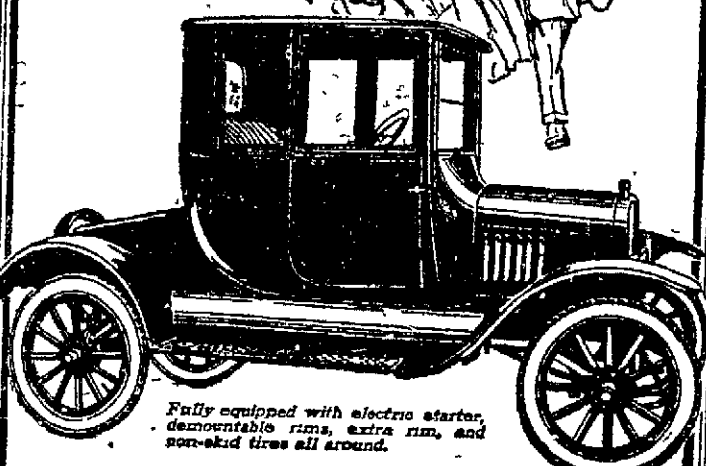

A is the filament. B is the grid. C is the plate.

In wiring the set use No. 16 or 18 copper wire and use "spaghetti" insulation. Try not have any of the connecting wires running parallel. All of these parts can be made. Tomorrow I will show you how to do it.

New Profession for Wireless Fans - Be a Radio Traffic Cop!

Radio fans, here's a new profession open to you—one that's not overcrowded or likely to be for some time.

Be an ethereal traffic cop! The profession's already well established.

Here you see two busy radio cops at work.

Above is Radio Inspector Schmitt on the job at Chicago. Every evening he listens to see to it that no one hogs the ether, sends out of turn or uses the wrong wave length.

Schmitt has charge of the 13 states comprising the ninth district. Below is Bernard H. Linden, federal radio traffic cop at San Francisco, butting in on important commercial.

He has to prevent amateurs from or marine messages, and if he catches you doing it, you lose your license!

FORMER LIMA MAN IN CHURCH WAR

Trouble Breaks Over Withdrawal of Lewis Pilgrim.

THREATENED BY COUNCIL

Injunction Secured Against Detroit Churchmen.

Lewis Pilgrim, former resident of Lima has been granted a temporary injunction in Wayne county court at Detroit, restraining Faith Lutheran church and the Rev. Roy D. Linhart, pastor from carrying out an alleged threat of accusing him from the pulpit of "disorderly and unbrotherly conduct."

Pilgrim resided in Lima a number of years ago, it was learned, but now is located in Chalmers, Mich.

MEMBERSHIP WITHDRAWN

Last December Pilgrim notified the pastor that he desired to withdraw his membership in the church. He was told his resignation would not be accepted because he had failed to assign reasons for leaving. If valid reasons were given, the church council stated in a letter to Pilgrim, that a letter of withdrawal would be granted. He would then be entitled to unite with some other church.

Pilgrim replied, stating that he was out, and cared nothing for a letter of dismissal, or the non-acceptance of his resignation.

Unable to solve the difficulty, the church council sought advice of Rev. G. J. Troutman, Circleville, president of the synod. Rev. Troutman advised them to treat Pilgrim "kindly" but if he refused to act in a Christian way to publicly announce his withdrawal and unbrotherly conduct.

Pilgrim rejected a plan by which he was to apply regularly for a letter of dismissal, according to Rev. Linhart, and gave the vestry 48 hours to accept his views.

PILGRIM REFUSES

Rev. Troutman was again appealed to, to no purpose. Pilgrim refused to apply for dismissal in the manner suggested.

Shortly after the church council notified him that if he did not comply for the letter by February 25, an announcement of his "disorderly and unbrotherly conduct" would be made from the pulpit.

Pilgrim sought the advice of an attorney. Persons were prepared and a temporary restraining order secured.

The church council is debating what steps to take to meet the court proceedings.

NEW BUICK FOUR LIVES UP TO REPUTATION MADE BY ITS PREDECESSORS

L. B. Merritt, local manager of the Sturtevant-Jones Co., Distributors of Buick Automobiles in this territory, has the following to say about the new four-cylinder model: Fulfilling the promise for serviceability made by Buick Fours of other years, the new Buick four-cylinder car is held with high regard by motorists everywhere. In every respect it is reflecting the experience and knowledge gained by its designers and manufacturers in building Buick Valve-in-Head Fours for many years. It is proving itself to be everything that should be expected in a good motor car value.

Look at the Caterpillar from Any Angle

The Kelly Caterpillar is unequaled in traction. It is more resilient even than a properly inflated pneumatic tire and, being free from punctures and blow-outs it is absolutely dependable.

Its first cost is considerably less than the pneumatic and it will give so much more mileage than either the pneumatic or the ordinary solid that its purchase is a real economy.

Look at the caterpillar from any angle and you will find its superiority unquestionable.

3 OBITUARY

Mrs. M. Ritchie, daughter of Mr. and
Mrs. Enos McLean, was born July 18th, 1874, near Vapora, Ohio. It was here she spent her childhood days and married life until they came to Lima a few years ago.
She was united in marriage to M. Ritchie in 1902. This union were born two children, Clifford Ritchie and Clayton Ritchie. The South Side Church of Christ about three years ago and attended services when her health would permit. She was a devoted woman, a loving mother, and a faithful wife. She loved her husband and Sunday school.
She departed this life Tuesday, April
4th, after a long lingering illness.
During her sickness she suffered much but never complained. She was a ways optimistic and never lost her faith in the Lord. She wanted to stay with her family but always said she was ready to go.
She leaves her husband, two children, three brothers, three sisters and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. She will be greatly missed by all children who need a mother's love and care.
"Servant of God, well done."
The battle fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

SPRING BEAUTIES

Here are a few different types of homes for your selection and approval and they are all good substantial homes located in the southwest part of Lima.

A—is a stucco of seven rooms, bath, sun parlor, breakfast room, garage, finished in oak and enamel. Price is right.

B—is a brick and stucco finished as above, dandy garage and on good paved street. Also priced right.

C—is a brick, thoroughly modern, with oak finish and is well located on a paved street, close to car line. You will buy this right if you are interested.

D—is a stucco semi-bungalow on brick street with the best of oak finish and if you desire a bungalow type ask about this one.

E—is another stucco with the hardwood and enamel and mahogany doors up, the garage holds two cars and has gas, water, electricity in it, built to the house and finished. Dandy lot, with cemented drive. This I am sure, will please you at the price offered.

F—is a two-story frame with double garage on an improved alley. This house has hardwood down, white enamel up, a nice six-room and bath proposition on a good street, close to cars and is priced way down. Now rented at $15 per month. A good one right.

Call me about any of these and I will be pleased to tell you all about them or show them to you. These homes are priced to sell.

EASIER MONEY IS REALTYAID

That easier money conditions, which have recently developed, will give real estate operations the stimulus needed for a building boom in Lima this year, is the opinion of J. J. Wyre, realtor, expressed Saturday.

Money sent to Lima for building loans by big insurance companies has been reduced for the investor. About one-half of one percent has been cut off rates and the bonus for making the loan has been cut squarely in two, Wyre declared.

Loans on property can now be had up to 60 per cent of the value in one company and 65 in another. CONDITIONS IMPROVED.

Aside from the money question, Wyre believes conditions are more rosy than a month ago. Within three months he predicts money will have eased so that scores of persons wanting to build can see their way clear to break ground.

OUTSIDE FORCES

Are constantly working for your benefit when you own a piece of real estate in a city like Lima.

Every new house that is erected in the vicinity of your holding makes your property more valuable.

Every new enterprise started here means an increase in the worth of your purchase.

Get interested in real estate. It is fascinating and it is profitable. It is the one kind of investment in which you can not possibly lose.

Why pay rent when for a small down payment you can become a home owner and thereby reap the benefits that are bound to come from the growth of Lima. After the down payment the monthly payments are no more than you are now paying for rent.

This is your last chance to purchase one of our strictly modern brand new 6-room houses with hardwood floors, full basements, hot air furnaces, sanitary bath rooms with gas grate built in, houses beautifully decorated, in fact all ready to move into, located on Scott Street between Kibby and Eureka, for $4,500.00. We have only two left at this price. Small down payment, balance like rent.

Act now. Don't delay. Call us for an appointment.

SPRING BEAUTIES

Here are a few different types of homes for your selection and approval and they are all good substantial homes located in the southwest part of Lima.

A—is a stucco of seven rooms, bath, sun parlor, breakfast room, garage finished in oak and enamel. Price is right.

B—is a brick and stucco finished as above, dandy garage and on good paved street. Also priced right.

C—is a brick, thoroughly modern, with oak finish and is well located on a paved street, close to car line. You will buy this right if you are interested.

D—is a stucco semi bungalow on brick street with the best of oak finish and if you desire a bungalow type ask about this one.

E—is another stucco with the hardwood and enamel and mahogany doors up the garage holds two cars and has gas, water electricity in it. built to the house and finished. Dandy lot, with cemented drive. This, I am sure, will please you at the price offered.

F—is a two-story frame with double garage on an improved arley. This house has hardwood down, white enamel up, a new six-room and bath proposition on a good street, close to cars and is priced way down. Now rented at $15 per month. A good one right.

Call me about any of these and I will be pleased to tell you all about them or show them to you. These homes are priced to sell.

We have noticed the word "REALTOR" has been used very indiscriminately in connection with the Real Estate Dealers in Lima. We wish to call your attention to the fact that this is a "coined" word and limited to the use of members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards of which the Lima Real Estate Board is a member. Therefore no person, unless a member of the Real Estate Board affiliated with the National Association, has the right to use the name of "Realtor."

The word was coined, and is used, to give a distinct appellation to members of Real Estate Boards affiliated with the National Association, to distinguish them from non-members whose business ethics were not controlled by the "Golden Rule Code" of the National Association. The purpose was to get into the public mind the idea that a member of the local Real Estate Board has a standing which differs from that of the ordinary real estate men.

The object of the organization is to protect the public against unprincipled and irresponsible persons whose only object is to benefit themselves at the expense of the buyer or seller, either by fair or unfair means.

The following are the names of the Real Estate Dealers who are members of the Lima Board and any evidence of fraud or misrepresentation in the sale or handling of property, if reported to the Secretary, will have prompt attention and if he is found guilty will be expelled from the Board.

EASIER MONEY IS REALTY AID

That easier money conditions, which have recently developed, will give real estate operations the stimulus needed for a building boom in Lima this year, is the opinion of J. J. Wyre, realtor, expressed Saturday.

Money sent to Lima for building loans by big insurance companies has been reduced for the investor. About one-half of one percent has been cut off rates and the bonus for making the loan has been cut squarely in two, Wyre declared.

Loans on property can now be had up to 50 per cent of the value in one company and 65 in another. CONDITIONS IMPROVED

Aside from the money question, Wyre believes conditions are more rosy than a month ago. Within three months he predicts money will have eased so that scores of persons wanting to build can see their way clear to break ground.

A plea for the construction of a business loft for housing small industries is made by J. I. Motter, president of the Lima Real Estate Board.

"We have received a number of inquiries from concerns seeking such quarters," he said. "Tight money has deterred construction of buildings of this character."

Motter reports some activity. Two building lots were sold by his firm in Woodlawn-ay Saturday.

Real estate took an up-turn during the week, with a number of good sized transfers.

Sale of the Weikelbaum building, 310 E. Market-st., to Dr. H. J. Brunk for $30,000 consideration, heads the list of big transfers for the week. The deal was closed by John H. Hofer. The property was purchased as an investment.

A residence in Oakland Park, W. High-st and vacant business lots opposite the fire station in E. High-st were sold by Dr. Brunk to A. J. Dunn, consideration totaling, $20,000.

Joe Hartline has purchased 124 lot frontage on Shiloh-ay rd from Dr. W. A. Wagner for $2,500. He will build a country home.

Sale of the Edward Foster residence, 1312 Lakewood-ay to Mrs. E. H. Hedges, and purchase of Dr. W. V. Parent's residence 342 C. Charles-st by J. Norman Claypool, is announced by Realtor Simon Fishel. Consideration not given.

PLACE ORDERS FOR BUILDING NOW

Great Rush for Materials and Labor Is Expected This Week.

WHAT LIGHT FIXTURES MEAN

Interesting Article on the Modern Method of Lighting Home.

During the past week there has been greatly increased activity in the placing of orders for early building of homes in Lima. "It seems that everybody has waited till the last minute to get their orders in or requests for estimates on the various jobs," said a contractor. "The result will be that there will be a great rush in another week and people will wonder why their building cannot be done sooner. I would suggest that people who are contemplating building would act at once in ordering their materials, so as to be ready when the workmen are called for the construction."

On this page are listed a number of reliable concerns that will gladly submit estimates on building materials and construction items for your home. Get in touch with them early this week.

For paints, we would suggest calling on the Quinn Decorating Company. This concern has been in the paint and decorating business in Lima for eighteen years and will assist you in selecting the paints required for your work.

Vern Bradrick does stucco work of the highest character. He has some interesting facts to show you regarding the stuccoing of your home.

The Geo. T. Kocher Lumber Company, with yards in Lima and Elida is equipped to supply every building need in lumber, whether it be one hundred feet or a million. They advertise "service that serves."

For building supplies, "ask the 'Consumers'." This concern makes a special feature of service, advertising "100 per cent satisfaction." Ask the Consumer's for estimates. E. J. Elliott, the roofing and furnace man is a pretty busy man these days, but he isn't too busy to give you honest-to-goodness service. Call him.

One of the newest and most sanitary as well as harmoniously desirable features in the modern home is the tile flooring and walls for bath, hall, kitchen, porch, etc. It might be a good plan to get in touch with the Acme Mantel & Tile Company about tiles and mantels for your new home.

You have heard of the Ideal Arcola for heating houses, haven't you? Drop around to the Jones-Kinn Company this week and look the Ideal Arcola over. Find out about its advantageous features over the old method of heating.

LIGHTING FIXTURES . . . . . The old way of completing the erection of a home and fitting it ready for the furnishings was to place lighting fixtures without any regard to harmony or effect.

People today have come to realize more and more the importance of harmony in lighting effects. This feature in decorating your home is just as important as the selection of wall decorations and draperies.

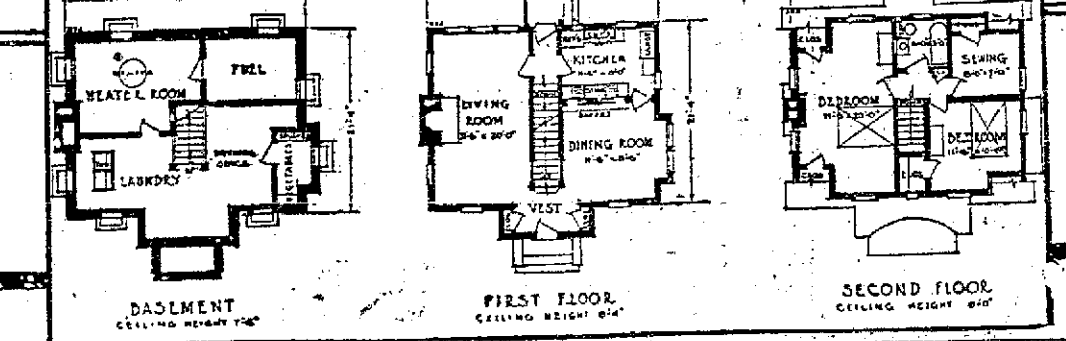

It is a fact that many otherwise beautiful homes have "grated" the harmonious effect of the various rooms by lack of harmony in the lighting fixtures.

The new modes in light fixtures are so varied, the coloring in glassware, in toned metal, and the designing so completely modern, that one may now be as particular about carrying out any desired effect in the home would be desirable in draperies, furnishings, etc.

What is true of the lighting of a home is also true of the electrical household fixtures. The new electric washers, much improved, certainly lighten the burden of the housewife and put her work on a more efficient basis. This is also true of new electric cleaners and sweepers, irons, grills, electric stoves, toasters, percolators, etc.

The Wentworth-Dean Electric Company, 211 W. High-st. make a specialty of new style lighting fixtures and up-to-the minute household appliances. This company also does electrical engineering and contracting. In fact one of the largest departments of this concern is that of house wiring, store and office building wiring, and outfitting large buildings such as hotels, complete from the installation of wiring to the finest of modern fixtures.

Building a Home? Here Is a Suggestion for You

How do you like this house? It's yours for $6000 to $8000, depending on the cost of building material and labor.

And that includes heating and lighting system.

This is another of the 100 model houses designed for small-home builders by the Architects' Small-Home Service Bureau.

The house shown in the photograph is in Minneapolis. It was built for $6000. It was one of the first houses built in accordance with plans drawn up by 10 of the best architects of the country.

You'll see by the plans that the house consists of a basement and two floors. There are six rooms and bath.

The basement contains heater room, laundry, space for fuel storage and shelves for fruit and vegetables.

On the first floor are living room, kitchen and dining room. On the second floor are two large bedrooms and a sewing room.

Next Sunday The News will show you another model small home.

Princess Viora, the former Mrs. Frank Jay Gould, in the bobsled costume she wore when she saw the Prince first at St. Moritz.

When Mrs. Gould's Prince Tossed Her Orchids to the Dancing Girl

Why the Former Helen Kelly Turned Toward the Handsome Irishman, Who Soon May Be a Commoner --- and Against Her Husband, Who Soon May Be a Near-East Sultan

Mrs. Fanny Burke Roche, Mother of Maurice Burke Roche, Fourth Baron of Fermoy. (C) U. & U

Prince Nouredin Viora, of Albania.

"The Prince suddenly seized the Princess's corsage bouquet of orchids and tossed it at the bare feet of the season's daring Oriental dancer." (The Photograph Shows Mlle. Zoula de Bonera, the Reigning Sensational Performer, in One of Her Bizarre Dances at the Folies Bergere.)

SCORE another knockout for the Irish. The romance of Princess Viora, formerly Mrs. Frank Jay Gould, and Edmund Maurice Burke Roche, fourth Baron of Fermoy, proves that Celtic hearts beat just as hotly sentimental in gilt-edge society as they do in songs about shamrocks and the river Shannon.

Princess Viora—born plain Peggy Kelly—married two American money kings and one Turkish prince. Now Europe's "tipsters" say she will divorce the prince, thereby renouncing her chance to become Queen of Albania, and will wed this dyed-in-the-green Irishman who any day may lose his title, his fortune and his castle in County Cork. It is as though pretty Peggy Kelly laughed through the aristocratic society woman's veil of wealth and prestige: "I'd rather be just an Irishman's wife, no matter how poor, than the queen of a Turkish king, be he ever so rich!"

Princess Viora's choice of a potential Irish commoner in preference to a European crown has brought home to social on-lookers of New York and London the fact that her father, the late Eugene Kelly, was as Irish as he was rich, and that she, in her school-days, was called "Peggy" instead of the more formal Margaret.

This blue-eyed beauty married Frank Jay Gould, one of the heirs to Jay Gould's millions, when she was a reigning belle of the 40s. She divorced him some time after the birth of their two children, Helen Margaret and Dorothy, now twenty and eighteen years old respectively. Next she married Ralph Thomas, son of the sugar magnate. On his death his fortune went to his brother. But his widow still received $20,000 a year alimony from Frank Gould.

Her third marriage was the climax of a "bobsled romance" at fashionable St. Moritz in the Swiss Alps. There the lovely American widow surrendered to the exotic charm of Prince Nouredin Viora, a Moslem by birth and education, a subject of Turkey, son of the grand vizier to the notorious Sultan Abdul Hamid; himself a candidate for the throne of Albania, most turbulent of Balkan principalities.

Their wedding came at a time when the Near East and all things pungently Oriental were the rage of European society. Harem veils and harem gowns filled the Paris shops. Eastern dancers were the headlines of every revue. Visiting sheiks, pashas and rajahs were the pets of the most conservative hostesses, whether stalking along the Riviera or through London drawing rooms.

Princess Viora and his American bride fitted picturesquely into the general scene. But it was not long before society began to whisper that all was not proceeding smoothly in the Viora household. The Irish temperament of the Princess, chattered the insiders, was rebelling against a superabundance of Oriental atmosphere. Their palatial home in Paris was flooded with bizarre curios and perfumes; the Prince talked more and more of Albania and its attractions; he seldom missed a performance at the Olympia or the Casino de Paris, where sise-eyed Levantine maidens whirled and writhed in their native dances.

A husband steering a bobsled down the snowy slopes of St. Moritz was admirable; but a husband who applauded with feverish enthusiasm the daring exhibitions of dancers imported from the reddest dives of Constantinople, was a different picture entirely. The gossips agreed that the "bobsled romance" was all but on the rocks when the story went the rounds that Princess Viora, her face pink with indignation, left the box of one Paris theatre because the Prince suddenly seized her corsage bouquet of orchids and tossed it to the stage, where it landed at the bare feet of the season's most daring Oriental dancer.

Matters were at this stage when there arrived in Paris the handsome bachelor baron, Edmund Maurice Burke Roche, as picturesque a person in his own Irish way as Prince Viora was in the Turkish manner. Maurice Roche, as New York knew him before he inherited a title, is the son of James Boothby Burke Roche, soldier of fortune and third Baron of Fermoy, and Fanny Work Burke Roche, daughter of the late "Frank Work," eccentric millionaire sportsman. He and his brother, Francis, inherited from Frank Work $3,000,000 each, but only on condition that they take the name of Work, never see their father and never visit Ireland. For Grandfather Work had never forgiven the man who "stole" his daughter, and after their divorce he spent his days hating Burke Roche and Ireland, and trying to stamp out the twins' love for both father and fatherland.

Maurice defied the will. He went to Ireland, saw his father, kept the name of Burke Roche. Francis followed suit. Other heirs of the Work estate, including Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, elder daughter, took no legal action. But even to-day, according to legal authorities, they could go into court and insist that the twins forfeit the millions they have been enjoying from year to year in defiance of the will.

Maurice, the millionaire who risks his fortune daily because he will be Irish, was beset by match-making mamas when his father died and he became fourth Baron of Fermoy. He and his 21,000 acres and his castle in Cork were a tempting catch. But Maurice, adored of the debutantes, reached Paris still uncaught, gazed into the blue eyes of Princess Viora, and in their depths saw the spirit that was Peggy Kelly's. And right there the Princess had to make her choice.

At one side was Burke Roche. He was a baron—but Ireland had been declared a free state and the Government of Ireland Act, just promulgated, threatened to deprive every Irish peer of his title. He had a castle—but all the world knew his improvident father had stripped it of most of its treasures. He had money—but any hour it might ride away on the wings of an ironclad will, peeved relatives and a court decision.

On the other hand was her husband—rich, swarthy, assured of his position in society, a favorite in all the capitals of Europe, received by kings and queens, himself the leading candidate for the disputed throne of Albania, where he was even then planning to go to claim the crown.

"Come with me to Albania and I'll make you a queen!" the Prince is reported to have urged the Princess.

"The only thing I'm sure of is I love you and I'm Irish!" might have been Burke Roche's plea.

The Princess looked at her husband and, behind the throne of Albania, she saw—Turkey, wars, stabbings, feuds, intrigues, harems, dancing girls, the sinister shade of Abdul Hamid, the bloody, and his grand vizier, her husband's father.

The Princess looked at Burke Roche. She saw, perhaps, his millions taking flight, his castle in ruins, his title changed to mere "Mr." She saw, too, with the eyes of Peggy Kelly, the simple Irish gentleman.

It was, so to speak, the shamrock vs. the crescent, the Bosphorus vs. the Shannon, the shillalah vs. the scimitar.

If the published reports from Paris are authentic—and they have not been denied—the shamrock, the Shannon and the shillalah won an overwhelming victory. Prince Viora has retired to his Albanian estate. But he retired alone. The Princess is said to have prepared the divorce papers. Burke Roche smiles like the happiest man in France. And society, looking on, says, "All together now—Ireland forever!"

eries in the world's entire scientific history

Professor Onelli, at Buenos Aires, was fully alive to the vital and world-wide importance of the story told by Sheffield. Within twenty-four hours he had the first news cabled round the world, and the front pages of newspapers in every civilized language and country carried headlines about the "Plesiosaurus in Patagonia."

Then, while professors and the general public from Shanghai to Grand Rapids and back again, squabbled with one another and cluttered the public prints with their quarrels and witticisms as to whether or not a living plesiosaurus did or did not exist—and if it did exist, whether it was really a plesiosaurus or merely a glyptodonkous, or, perhaps, nothing more than a puny fifty-foot megatherium or an overgrown armadillo—Professor Onelli, like the true scientist he is, said, "I am going down there to see for myself. And, furthermore, if there is a plesiosaurus there—or any other horrible prehistoric monster—I'm going to bring him back, dead or alive, to my zoological garden—provided I can once get a harpoon firmly fixed in his tail."

The Argentina S. P. C. A. admired Professor Onelli's determination, but it didn't approve the phrase, "dead or alive." And it liked still less his mention of harpoons. A harpoon at best is a painful instrument with several jagged prongs. And a harpoon big enough to spear a plesiosaurus sounded awful.

So the S. P. C. A. of Argentina issued a manifesto. "You can go get him if you like," the society said to Professor Onelli, "but you must use no hooks. You must catch him alive. If you try that harpoon business we'll have the law on you. This plesiosaurus hasn't bothered you. We prefer that you let him alone entirely. He may have a wife, and if you leave them free in their native haunts they may, in a thousand years or so, have a happy family of little plesiosaurs. We regret that we cannot prevent you from capturing him—but we warn you not to hurt him. If you catch him you must catch him gently."

Professor Onelli proved his greatness by not losing his temper. After considering the matter for a day or two he decided that catching plesiosaurs might be better than killing them, assuming that there might be two of them.

And that is really how it happens that "catch him alive!" is the slogan of the party

Imagine the titanic struggle! . . . of course the hunters could kill him with explosive bullets, but they have orders to "catch him alive."

Clementi Onelli, director of the famous Buenos Aires Zoological Gardens. Professor Onelli, a scientist of international reputation, judged from Sheffield's careful description that the creature he had seen was a plesiosaurus, or a member of the plesiosaurian group.

The existence of such an animal, sole survivor of its race, after an incredible period of time, "if definitely proven to the satisfaction of all, would be one of the most amazing and most important discoveries

When the Plesiosaurus Flourished Several Million Years Ago, Many Other Gigantic Monsters Roamed the Earth. This Picture Shows One of His "Cousins," the Allosaurus, a Huge Lizard Eighty Feet in Length.

STARTLING enough was the authentic announcement that a living plesiosaurus—gigantic prehistoric monster long supposed extinct—had been seen by an English explorer in the wild lake region of Patagonia.

But even more astonishing is the news, just confirmed, that South American scientists already have started to hunt this monster down and are planning to capture him alive, with tanks!

During the war the tanks were used for destruction and death. With the arrival of peace the tremendous power of their caterpillar traction has been turned to many varied purposes, but no one anticipated that they would ever be put to such a curious use as this.

The plesiosaurus is a reptile giant more than sixty feet in length, with a huge body and a dragon's head on a long, snake-like neck. In any plan to catch such a monster alive machinery strong enough to hold him would be a prime consideration. It was natural, therefore, that tanks should be thought of. With chains and tackle, pulleys and cables when once they succeed in "trapping" this great beast, the caterpillar traction of the heavy tanks will furnish the necessary power to subdue him.

Consider the size and strength of this creature. Consider the comparatively puny, pygmy stature of the strongest human being, and imagine, if you can, what would happen if a party of men engaged him in a "hand-to-hand" struggle without the aid of machinery.

Imagine Jack Dempsey—greatest living human fighter—facing this monster, reared fifty feet high and ready to strike! You might as well try to imagine a squirrel fighting a boaconstrictor. The odds would be the same. Jack Dempsey could stand tip-toe on the back of the tallest elephant, and wouldn't be able to reach half way to this monster's head.

Of course, the hunters could kill him with explosive bullets, but they have orders to "catch him alive." So they're going after him with tank-tractors.

The trap in which they hope to "take" the plesiosaurus will probably be something like the "snares" which are often used to catch rabbits and other small fur-bearing animals—only, of course, on an immensely larger scale.

Every American boy who has lived on a farm knows what a snare is. A lasso-like loop is spread, through which the animal has to poke its head to take the bait. This releases a trigger, and the loop which is attached to a bent sapling, is jerked tight. Usually it strangles the animal, but it can be modified merely to tether the captive without choking the life out of him.

A huge snare, either of chain or cable, will be set in the water of the Patagonian lake where the monster was seen, or on the water's edge, and the tanks will be concealed on the bank, already connected with the trap, ready to drag him out if he is caught.

Imagine the titanic struggle. So sensational will the adventure be, if the hunters actually come to grips with the plesiosaurus, that a South American motion picture concern offered to put up all the money for the expedition in exchange for the exclusive rights to make pictures. This offer was refused. If the capture actually occurs, it will be of such scientific importance that the whole world will have the right to complete information, unhindered by private "contracts."

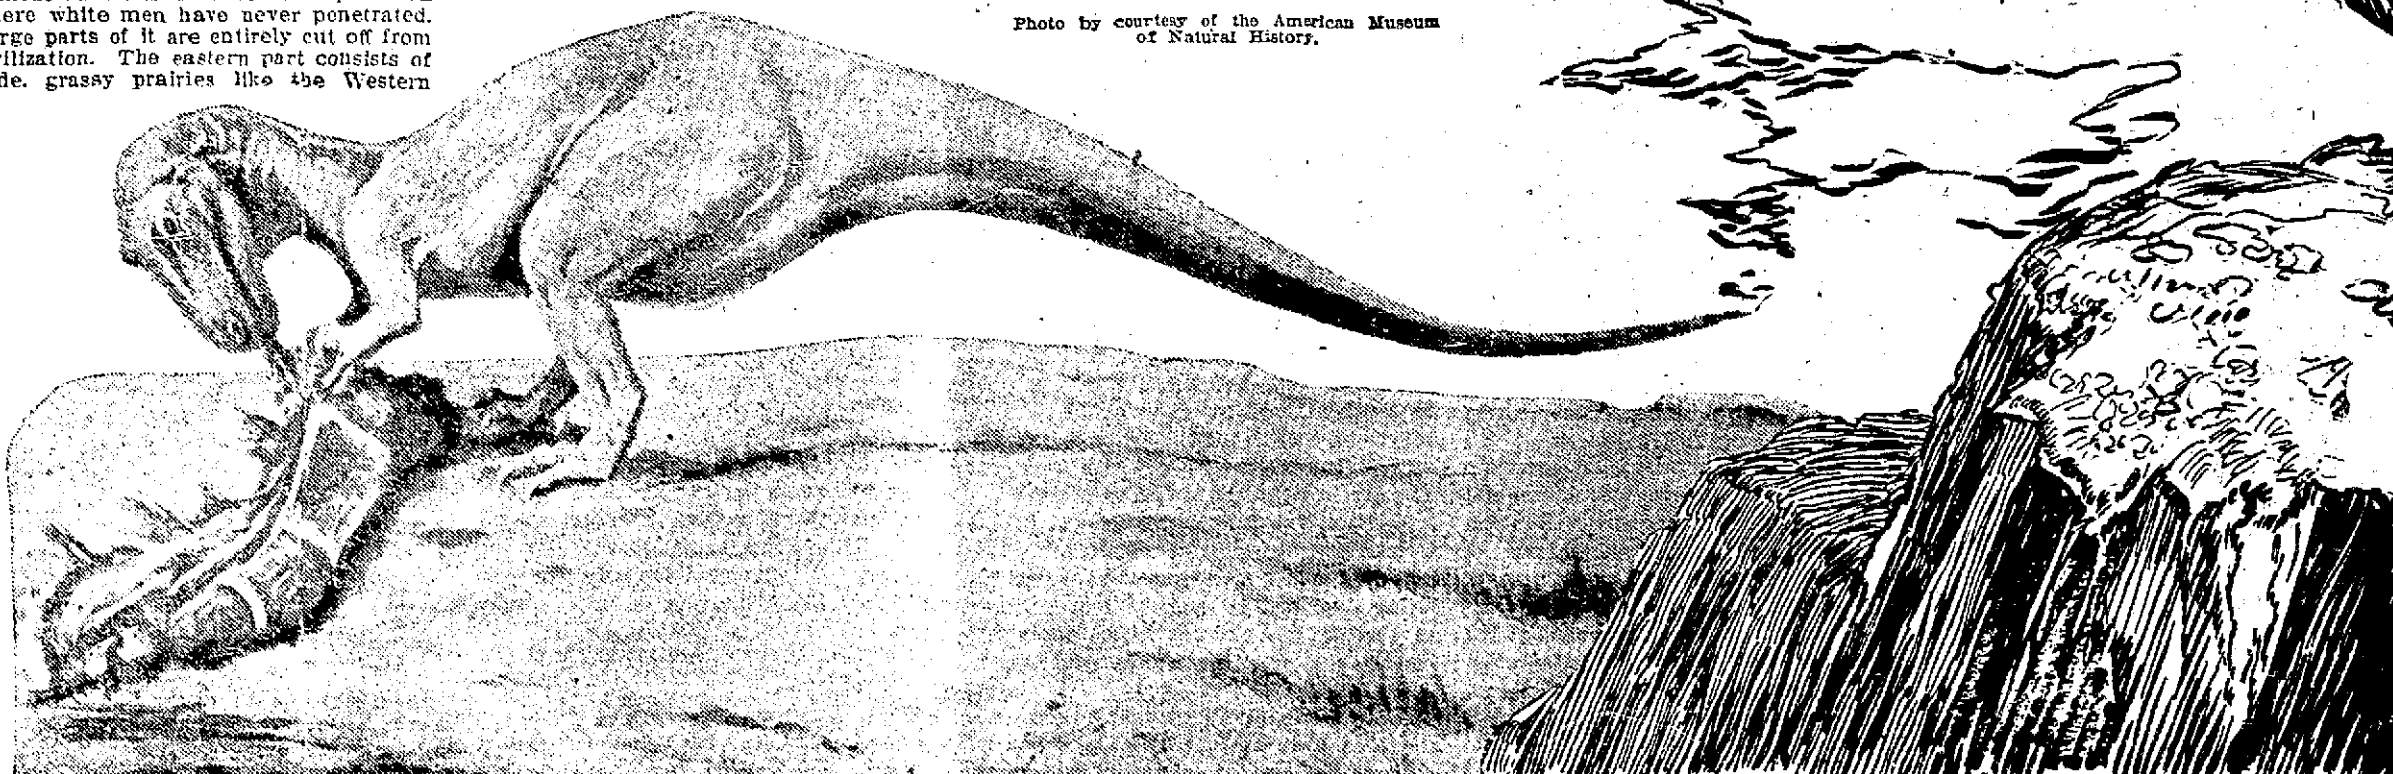

First word of the alleged existence of this last surviving prehistoric monster came from an English hunter and explorer by the name of Martin Sheffield, who had penetrated to some of the wildest mountain lakes of western Patagonia. This country, which, by the way, is reported to contain savages of extraordinary height, larger than any other present race of men, is in the extreme southern peninsula of the South American continent. It is below the tropics, in the southern temperate zone, and has a climate about like that of the State of New York. Patagonia is more than 1,000 miles long and about 400 miles wide. It has immense areas without railroads or other transportation where white men have never penetrated. Large parts of it are entirely cut off from civilization. The eastern part consists of wide, grassy prairies like the Western cattle country in the United States before the white man came. To the westward are the Andes—a high region of mountains, lakes and jungle.

It was this section that Sheffield and his small party of natives were exploring. One morning, according to his statement, he was looking down from a height on the surface of one of these mountain lakes, and saw an enormous creature swimming in the water, partly submerged, but with its mighty back showing larger than the combined bulk of a half dozen elephants and a neck more than twenty feet long reared entirely out of the water.

As he watched this monster with intense amazement, scarcely daring to credit the testimony of his own eyes, it swam for several hundred feet and finally disappeared in a lunging, awkward dive. Afterward, according to one report, the members of the party found an enormous trail, crushing the underbrush for a width of twenty feet, leading to the edge of the lake.

Sheffield identified the animal as some that is on its way to penetrate the Patagonian jungle.

In addition to their tanks and traps and caterpillar tractors the hunters are taking along a few machine guns and rifles that fire explosive bullets—since the S. P. C. A. objects so strenuously to harpoons—but these weapons, of course, will be only for protection in a last emergency.

And the best of it is that they really have started! It isn't a mere yarn by some Buenos Aires bally-hoo writer or some Patagonian press agent. The search may have to continue for months, and in the end it may be in vain, but it has begun. It is an adventure to make the average small boy lie awake nights consumed with envy—to make the sourest grown-up pessimist realize that there is some romance still left in the world.

Dr. William Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological Garden, says, "So many seemingly impossible things have been discovered in recent times that it is a dangerous thing to make an assertion covering the whole world and say that no such animal exists."

Out at Northwestern and Chicago universities they are in a state of fine excitement and belief. They are talking of putting an expedition in the field themselves. Elmer S. Riggs, curator of the Field Museum, at Chicago, may head it. He attaches great importance to the report of Martin Sheffield, and his greatest fear is that if the monster does exist Professor Onelli may "beat him to it."

Just what manner of creature will they have on their hands if they do catch a plesiosaurus and bring him back alive? What will the Sunday afternoon crowds at the zoo see when they gaze through the steel bars of the huge enclosure with its little wooden sign with its unfamiliar five-syllabled name which they will mispronounce while they gaze on the imprisoned monster and try to feed him peanuts?

The artist who has made the big draw.

ing on this page gives you a fairly accurate idea. He worked from pictures and "restorations" made by the scientists at the American Museum of Natural History. From the skeleton, which is shown in the photograph at the right—and which is the actual fossil skeleton of a real plesiosaurus—the biologists are able to "reconstruct" and tell you approximately how the living creature looked.

The period in which it flourished is called the Mesozoic, and dates back several millions of years. Mankind, according to the teachings of science, appeared about 500,000 years ago. It was probably ten million years earlier that the plesiosaurus roamed the world.

Science has generally taught that all of these prehistoric reptilian monsters have long since disappeared, but the story from Patagonia revives a widespread belief that some of them have lived from generation to generation and still exist in isolated savage portions of the globe.

If the plesiosaurus is really alive, and they catch him, and you are fortunate enough to visit the zoological garden where he is kept, exactly what you will see, in simple language, is a gigantic lizard sixty to eighty feet long. Sauros is the Greek word that means lizard. Plesios means near. So a plesiosaurus, in plain English, is a near-lizard. He is like a lizard, but not entirely like one, for his head is more like that of a dragon, and he has sharp teeth. Also he has flappers like a seal instead of feet.

As to what your chances are of ever seeing one opinion, of course, differs. Yet Martin Sheffield is by no means the only man who has testified to seeing a plesiosaurus alive in that region of South America.

Lieutenant-Commander O. Bevilacqua, commander of the U. S. S. Kaweah, now at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, says that in 1906, while in the Straits of Magellan, about 500 yards off the coast of Patagonia, he saw the monster one afternoon, while on watch.

"The visibility was high, and I do not believe I could have been mistaken," he said. "I was scanning the sky-line toward the shore and I heard a splash and saw a huge ice-covered boulder splash into the sea from the high rocky shore. A moment later a large animal appeared at the point from which the boulder had dropped and looked out toward me. The head was shaped like that of a horse and the neck was fully thirty feet long. It was not a huge turtle, because turtles do not have necks of that length. I am equally sure that it was not a snake, for it had a great body, and snakes do not live in such ice and snow as existed on the coast at that season."

Charles Johnson Post, who spent two years in South American jungles gathering material for his work, also tells of having heard at first hand of a monster strikingly similar to a plesiosaurus.

"I was in Riba Alte," he says, "an Indian village in Bolivia, west of the Falls of Madetra. The monster, which I believed a plesiosaurus, had been seen by an Indian near Lake Rogogunda, about 250 miles to the south. This country is unexplored. I don't think a white man has ever seen this lake or its neighbor, Lake Rogogunda, but they are generally believed by scientists to exist."

"One day a half-breed came to the village with a story of having seen a strange animal which terrified him. I thought it significant that the man who knew the fauna of the section thoroughly and was afraid of nothing, should have suddenly become alarmed. Evidently he had seen some new animal."

The man was what was called a cruiser. He went through this section of the jungle looking for rubber. While in the region of Rogogunda he had come upon a trail through the dense tropical undergrowth made by some great animal. I told him that the trail was that of a snake.

"No, no," the half-breed replied; "it was not the trail of a snake." He then went on to explain that the animal had something which resembled feet, but which were not feet, and something that resembled a turtle's flappers, yet were not flappers.

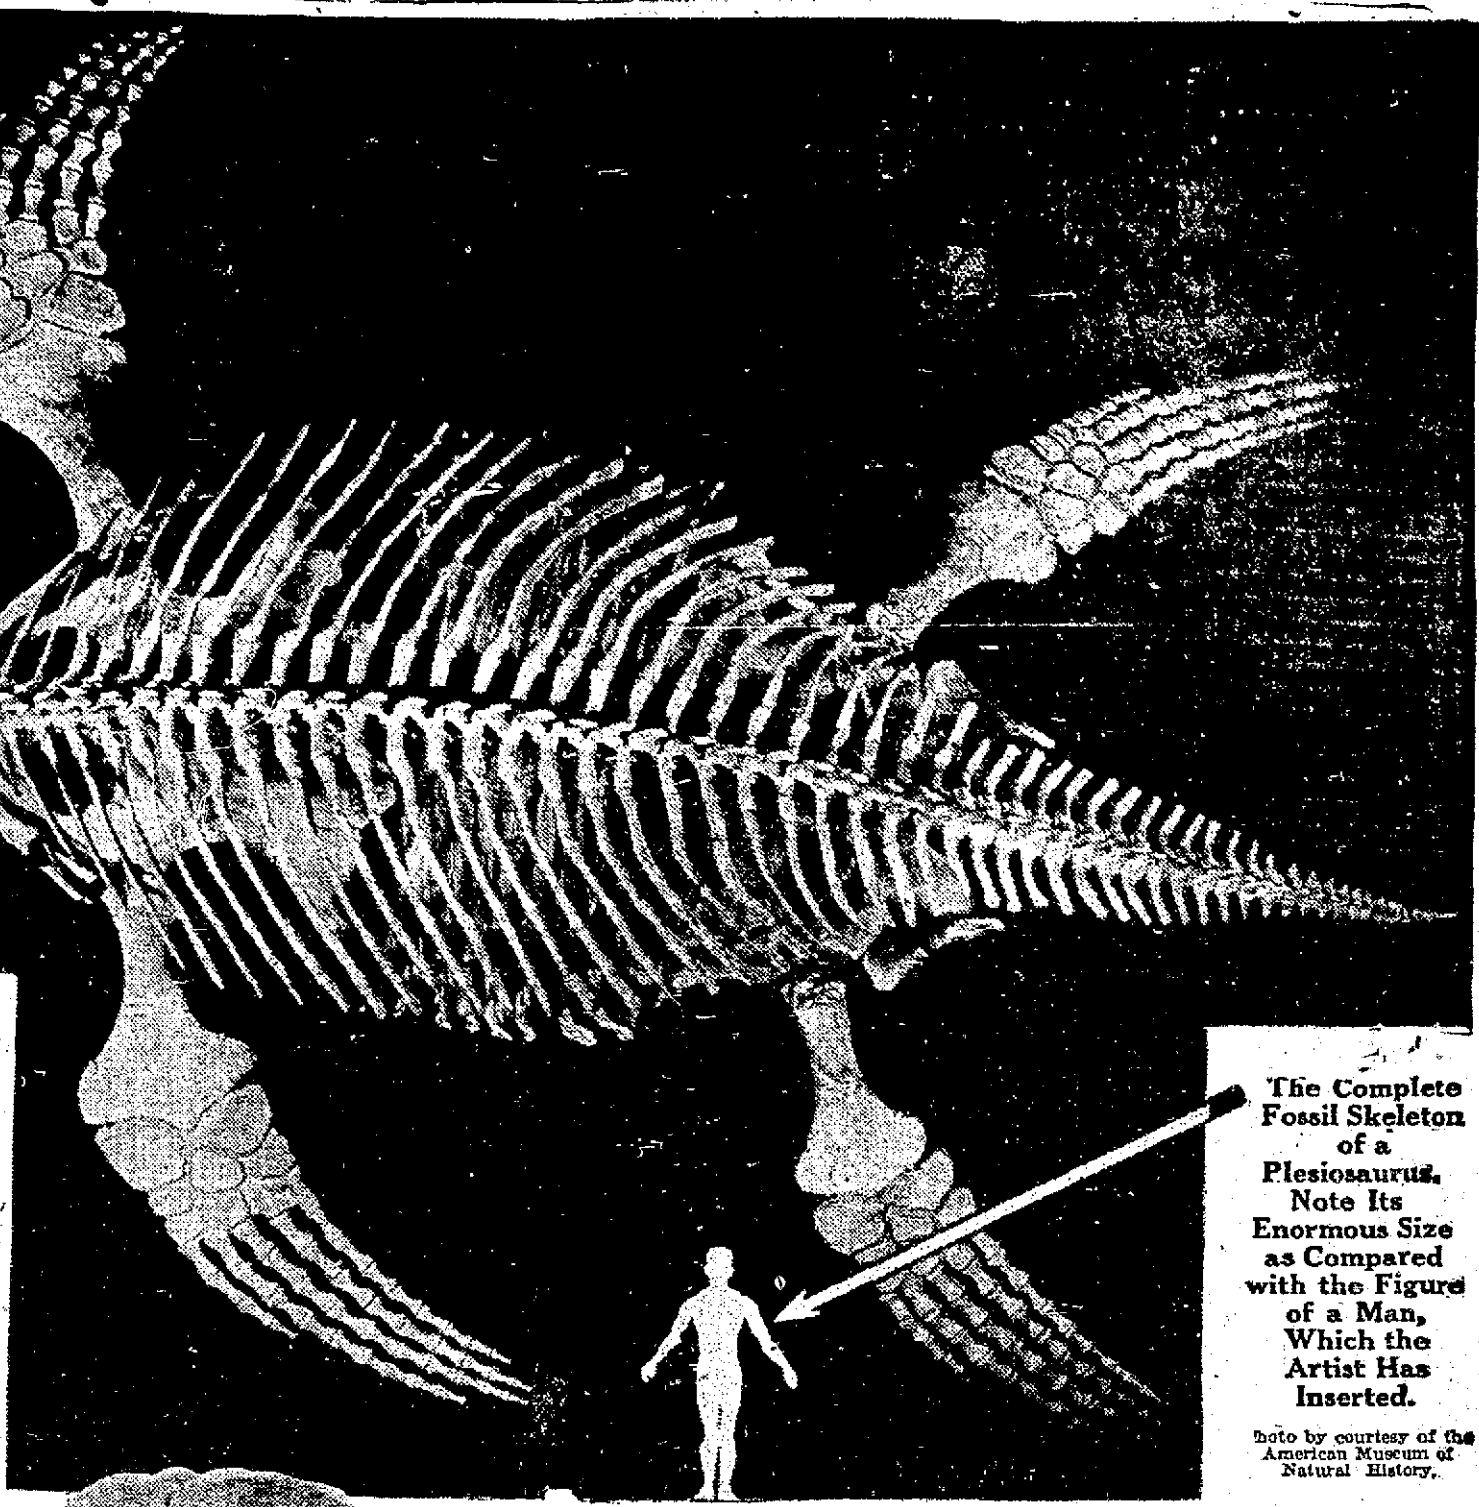

"A short time later the half-breed said he saw in a shallow part of the lake an animal with a long neck and a head. I cross-examined him, but he stuck to the story, giving such a description in his primitive way that I immediately thought of a plesiosaurus. The half-breed had shot at the animal and it disappeared under the water. He was not to be persuaded that he had seen either a snake or a turtle."

"If a white man had told me such a story," continued Mr. Post, "I might not have believed it. But the half-breed was too simple and primitive to have attempted a joke. He had never seen a scientific book or any other work which could have created in his mind the pictures of the plesiosaurus which he conveyed to me."

"I do not maintain that this was a plesiosaurus exactly like the prehistoric species, but I think that quite likely it was a modification. It probably was an unknown species. It seems to me altogether probable that the essential characteristics of the animal have survived in some form. For instance, the duck-billed platypus, found in Australia, is a survival from prehistoric ages. It is half animal, half bird. It lays eggs and also suckles its young. The kangaroo is also a survival. Yet if Australia had been previously unexplored and some traveller came from there with stories of such animals, he would not be believed."

So Professor Onelli and his expedition are on their way into Patagonia to find the plesiosaurus, if it does exist, and to "catch him alive." If they can. And the whole world is waiting with keenest interest the outcome of the great adventure.

No Wonder the Palm Beach Gossips Gasped!

When the Impulsive Mrs. Oelrichs, Who Always Has Society On Pins and Needles, Set Off a Few Breakfast Fireworks in the Ultra-Smart Hotel

"She poked her platter under the headwaiter's august nose and she bade the headwaiter fix his august eye on what the platter contained."

JUST what was the matter with Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs' bacon and eggs at the smart hotel that morning—whether the bacon was burned or the eggs turned over when they should have been "sunny-side up"—the Palm Beach colony doesn't yet know. Even the headwaiter isn't quite sure, and he got an awful lot of egg. A faceful and vestful, too, if reports of his appearance are to be believed.

But everybody within hearing distance does know one thing—that the bacon and eggs, whatever their condition, suited neither the taste nor the temper of rich and fashionable and eccentric "Tessie," long famous as the most dreaded "demon widow" in New York society.

Mrs. Oelrichs is gone from the hotel. She is gone from Palm Beach. She vowed she would never return. She left in the wake of her indignation enough gasps, giggles, gossip, wretched waiters, apologetic captains' and scattered bits of breakfast to make her sudden exit take its place among other legends which society delights to relate about its czarina.

For Mrs. Oelrichs might be described as exactly that. She is immensely wealthy. Her lineage is azure—a daughter of the late Senator Fair of California, a sister of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, connected by blood or marriage with the bluest families in the blue, top-most layer. Her villa, Rose Cliff, is the show spot of Newport. Her Fifth Avenue home for years was the capital of American aristocracy. She could have for the asking, say the insiders, the social sceptre wielded so despotically by the late Mrs. Astor.

But Mrs. Oelrichs doesn't want it. Social sceptres mean no more to her than getting her picture in the paper. And not so long ago she crashed a camera over a miserable photographer's head because he dared to snap her when she wasn't in the mood for snapping. She is that kind. Mrs. Oelrichs is also this kind: When the Atlantic fleet lay at Newport in 1910, she gave its entire personnel a "blowout" at Rose Cliff. Commanders and gobs over-ran the grounds, hobnobbing shoulder to shoulder with debutees in the beautiful Court of Love, modeled by St. Gaudens, himself, after Marie Antoinette's bower at the Petit Trianon. And Mrs. Oelrichs, 'tis said, "cut" two dances with an admiral because she liked the way a gunner's mate tangoed.

Again, during the war, when certain multi-millionaires objected to patriotic bunting on upper Fifth Avenue, Mrs. Oelrichs ordered sixteen Liberty Loan posters and plastered them with her own hands all over the front of her residence at The Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street. After that, the multi-millionaires and their wives couldn't get enough red, white and blue for their porches. Mrs. Oelrichs is democratic and autocratic by spells. She leased a bath house at Easton Beach, the public beach at Newport, because she said the crowd there was more amusing than the blue-bookers at Bailey's. That was the same summer she fired and prosecuted her chauffeur because he smashed up her car one night. "I'll teach these servants a lesson!" the late "Tessie" was quoted as telling the court. The car, an ancient runabout, was one of Mrs. Oelrichs' hobbies. She, the runabout and her poodle are landmarks of Newport during the season. Cabbies point her out to strangers furtively. They know that any minute Mrs. Oelrichs may swing around and "bawl them out" for daring to make her a "spectacle." Then and clattering cutlery, entirely unconscious of the impending melodrama of Mrs. Oelrichs' eggs.

"Rose Cliff," the Newport Residence of Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs.

Then—presto!—silence of the grave. Silence, that is, save for the stentorian tones of Mrs. "Tessie" Oelrichs, rising from a point at the extreme northeast corner of the great hall, booming to the ceiling, floating out into the lobby and forth into the sunshine, until even faroff chairboys stilled their African laughter and rolled their eyes in the direction of that angry contralto profundo.

Mrs. Oelrichs was saying something to her waiter. Some say she called him names. Others say the names were applied to the bacon. Still others to the eggs. They agreed that whatever Mrs. Oelrichs addressed her remarks to, those remarks were pointed—fatly pointed.

The next reel shows Mrs. Oelrichs on her feet, holding the platter of bacon and eggs before her much as Mary Garden playing Salome holds the papier-mache head of John. Mrs. Oelrichs steered her way between the tables, still talking, agitatedly and still extending the offending dish at arms length so that none might misconstrue the occasion for her outburst.

In that pose she reached the "lounge" and approached the headwaiter, an august gentleman before whom new-rich millionaires cringe, and people without pedigrees are so much nothing. But Mrs. "Tessie" Oelrichs is not the kind of person to stop at dignity—even when worn by the foremost headwaiter of Palm Beach.

She said things to the headwaiter. She said things that made the headwaiter's hair—and knees—curl. She poked her platter under the headwaiter's august nose and she bade the headwaiter fix his august eye on what the platter contained. By this time ringside standing room was not to be had at any price.

Then, as suddenly as she began her jeremiad, Mrs. Oelrichs ended it. She stalked toward the elevator and the elevator whisked her upward and roomward. Behind her remained 85 per cent of the New York 400, more amused than they had been in two years; one smashed platter; and one headwaiter plucking bits of egg off his august chest. The headwaiter, in his nervousness, must have dropped the dish. Otherwise, how could the eggs have gotten there? They couldn't jump, could they? And, surely Mrs. Oelrichs wouldn't throw them, would she?

Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs.

she will tramp into the nearest tradesman's and haggle for fifteen minutes over the price of a yard of silk. She is the only woman in Newport who haggles—and doesn't care who knows it. For years Mrs. Oelrichs threatened to quit America forever. Her contempt for the United States on occasion has been as frank and deep as was her patriotism during the war, when she was one of the heaviest buyers of Liberty Bonds in New York City. The contempt dates, say her friends, from the day when a stevedore stepped on her toe on her return from Europe. Thus the press quoted "Tessie" then:

"Good God, man! You'll drive me out of this country some day. With all the rudeness and impudence of these long-shoremen life in America is worth nothing."

Two years ago Mrs. Oelrichs made good her threat. She departed for Paris and stayed there, while society mourned. Newport was dull. Palm Beach lacked pepper. The court minus its czarina was Deauville without its Casino—Elizabethan England without Elizabeth. Society could find no substitute for its stock question: "What will Tessie do next?"

And then, after two years of chosen exile, Mrs. Oelrichs came home. She leased an apartment on Park Avenue. She engaged her favorite suite at Palm Beach.

She issued invitations for her famous annual Palm Beach dinner—the social yardstick for measuring "who" was to be "who" each season. The smart setters rejoiced. Eagerly they awaited her arrival. Expectantly they received the news that Mrs. Oelrichs and her retinue had arrived. When, they whispered, will "Tessie" begin to cut loose?

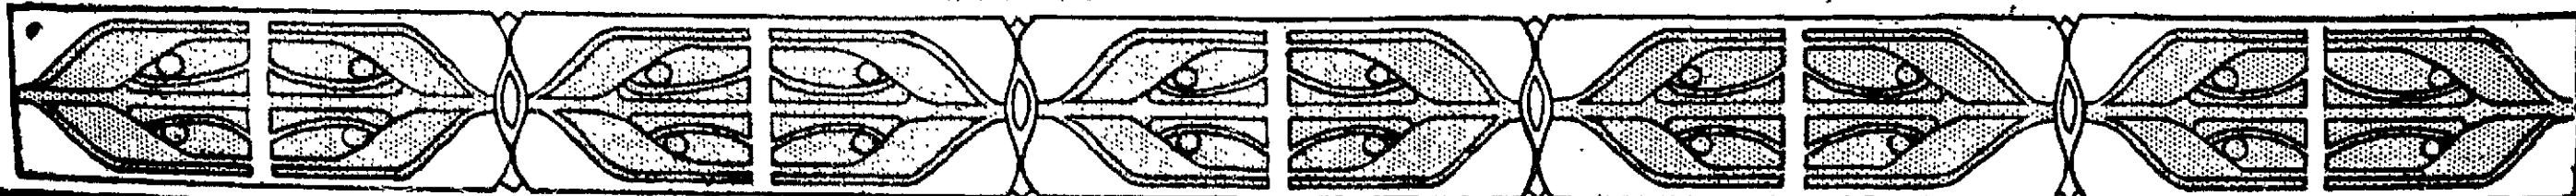

She did not disappoint them. At first all was quiet along the Jungle Trail; not a breath disturbed the serenity of palms and sunshine. Bored souls began to fear that exile had subdued the capricious spirit; time had softened the celebrated Oelrichs wrath. But—not so.

The bacon did it. Or the eggs. Possibly both. In the confusion that reigned the question of which was really to blame—bacon or eggs—became another mystery along with the riddle of how most of the eggs got out of the dish and all over the headwaiter's shirt.

This much is known. Mrs. Oelrichs, in the main dining room, did order bacon and eggs. Also she got them. After that, spectators' accounts differ about the details.

There were lots of spectators. They crowded the dining room and they were draped about the lobby and they strolled and sat and lounged on the wide verandas. Lots of them, and all of them king-plus of the 400. They were laughing and talking

MUTT AND JEFF—YES, AIN'T MUTT AN UNREASONABLE GUY?

SHORT SHAVINGS

Spencer C. Biddle, industrial secretary of the Y. M. C. A., tells of a friend who split the seat of his trousers. He fixed that by taking his waistcoat off and buttoning it around his waist under the split. "It worked fine," he said in telling Biddle about it, "until I went to pay my fare on the way home, and remembered that my money and tickets were in my waistcoat pocket."

Chas. C. Kitts, dealer in agricultural implements, stopped to admire his new oxfords when he put them on in the morning. When he ran to catch his street car he forgot to remove the shoe horn from the heel. "I wondered why the shoe felt so clumsy," he said, "I found out when I sat on my heels to open the safe."

Maurice Hoteller hurried to the aid of a man who had slipped on the sidewalk. The man got up with a pained expression. "Hurt?" asked Hoteller. "No," said the man. "But there's a pint bottle of maple syrup in my pocket, and I think the cork has come out."

John A. Harrison, of the telephone company, attended a movie show at the Follies. A woman, seated in the next row ahead, placed her hat on the seat next to her.

A stranger came in and sat down on the hat, crushing it. He apologized, while the woman looked daggers at him. Then he absently placed his own hat, a derby, on the seat, and sat down on it, Harrison said.

The woman laughed.

NEW POLITICAL PARTY FORMED

Organization is Known as the Common People

ITS EMBLEM IS A GOAT

Anyone May Join But Criminals, Reporters, Editors

(By ALEXANDER HERMAN)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Alexander Paul Arabi Connor did not like Washington, D. C., engineering or political conditions. So he packed up, came here to Springfield, took up law and formed a new party, the Common People.

Its emblem is a goat. Anyone may join except criminals, reporters, and editors, and politicians already in office.

"But this does not mean," Connor hastens to explain, "that a Common People's member can't run for office after he is in the party. 'I am the party's first candidate. I'm running!

FOUNDER OF NEW PARTY

for the state senate." "Why exclude newspapermen?" "Because," the founder smiled, "they must maintain their neutrality. I needn't tell you why we bar criminals."

The Common People, says Connor eventually will be able to take over the reins of government. It may take a little time— "But patience," Alexander Paul Arabi Connor continued, "is one of my many virtues."

If he waits long enough he will have seven more votes. His children are growing up rapidly.

Meanwhile he has secured a charter from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The party's manifesto is revealed herewith for the first time.

(By ALEXANDER P. A. CONNOR) Even a worm will turn.

So the Common People have organized themselves as a new unit politic.

Our program? We have none other than the will of the common people.

We find no fault with our government, nor its laws in general. But we do seek their proper application.

Our chief complaint is that the burden of life has become too heavy. The fault lies not in ourselves. They are not all the proper men for office.

They do not sincerely and wholeheartedly work for the common good. We want men who do.

We seek to cut down the number of misfits in office. We want to exterminate those wallowing in graft.

We will work from the bottom up, attacking the root of political evils in local administrations. Our units are already on the job in Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Connecticut and Colorado.

Eventually the Common People will express themselves nationally. The Common People want cheaper living, public service for the public, safer taxation, responsive representation, and elimination of political boss domination.

In short, we want common sense for the common weal.
